Court Asked To Oust Hoffa

'Cranberry Verdict Is Expected Today

Industry Claim 1958 Crop Safe Receives Jolt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government moved to seize tainted cranberries from the 1958 crop Wednesday a few hours after the industry insisted that all berries from that year are safe to eat.

Shortly thereafter, Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming gave out word that the whole cranberry situation may be cleared up Thursday.

The tainted berries turned up in Detroit Tuesday. City-county health officials said most of the shipment already has been sold.

The industry had made the claim of safety the major basis of a plea that Flemming assure the American public that all cranberry products now on sale are untainted. The contention was that all contaminated berries found were from the 1959 crop and could be headed off the market.

The request was made to Flemming at an open conference called to speed up the freeing of cranberries from suspicion so housewives would feel no qualms about serving the berries for Thanksgiving next week in the traditional fashion.

Details Not Revealed

After a subsequent closed meeting with the industry representatives, Flemming said he expects to announce Thursday morning an approved plan for speeding clearance of cranberries. He declined to give any details.

Asked if the plan would provide for speedier clearance of large volumes of berries, the secretary said that was the objective, and he added: "We both feel it will be very helpful."

Commissioner George P. Larrick of the Food and Drug Administration told reporters revisions of the industry plan suggested by the government would take care of the development involving the 1958 crop.

Flemming also said the plan will cover both the 1959 and 1958 crops. An industry spokesman said all the 1957 crop had been consumed or destroyed.

Five-Point Industry Plan

The industry's request for Flemming's endorsement accompanied a five-point industry program for checking berries not yet on the market. The testing has turned up berries contaminated by the weed killer aminotriazole, which produces cancer in rats.

The tainted 1958 cranberries, the Welfare Department announced, came from Massachusetts, which produces about half of the U.S. crop. These were the first contaminated berries reported from that state.

Previously cranberries declared suspect had been traced to Wisconsin, Oregon and Washington. This left only New Jersey among the big producing states as free of rejected berries.

Army Orders Cranberry Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army said Wednesday it has ordered a halt to cranberry consumption by U. S. troops all over the world.

In an order cabled to commands throughout the world Tuesday, the Army surgeon general's office suspended the issue of cranberries to troop messes and forbade commissary resale.

The Army's action follows by a week an Air Force announcement that no cranberries were to be issued if they came from areas where they might have been contaminated by the weed-killer, aminotriazole. The Navy has directed cranberries may be served once they are proven free of contamination.

Aminotriazole is suspected of causing cancer.

In Hunting Tragedy

Curtice, Retired GM Head, Kills Friend In Hunting Accident

WALPOLE ISLAND, Ont. (AP) — Retired General Motors President Harlow H. Curtice Wednesday accidentally shot and killed one of his closest friends, Harry W. Anderson, a former GM vice president, while the two were duck-hunting here.

Ontario provincial police said the men were in a duck blind on Ste. Anne's Island in the St. Clair River, international boundary between the United States and Canada.

Police said both men prepared to fire as the ducks flew in and that Anderson stood up suddenly as Curtice fired.

Anderson retired Dec. 31, 1956, as vice president in charge of personnel for General Motors. Curtice retired as president last year.

Friends said both loved the outdoors and were frequent hunting and fishing companions.

Anderson would have been 68 on Christmas Day. He is survived by his widow, Veda and a 4-year-old daughter, Jane Kristen.

Anderson was struck in the side of the head. Dr. C. A. Henrich, county coroner, said he had not decided if an inquest would be necessary.

The two men were guests at Ste. Anne's Lodge with George W. Kennedy, chairman of the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Corp. of Detroit.

Anderson was a graduate of the Detroit College of Law and joined the legal department of General Motors in 1919. He twice served as a special assistant to C. E. Wilson, and in 1936 was named director of labor relations for General Motors.

Border Patrol Told Cienfuegos Hiding In Tampa

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) —The U.S. Border Patrol began a search Wednesday for missing Cuban army chief Maj. Camilo Cienfuegos, reported to be hiding in Tampa's Latin quarter.

John Bradford, head of the border patrol here, said "we are running down all leads but we have had no success."

Cienfuegos, who disappeared after a flight across Cuba last month was reported to be at the home of Dr. Jose R. Suarez Wednesday morning. But when border patrolmen arrived to check, he was not there.

Instead of Cienfuegos, the federal agents found Dr. Radio Crenata, a former Cuban senator under the old Batista regime. Bradford said he was an alien resident of Tampa who claimed he was merely visiting Suarez.

The informant, who asked that his name be withheld, said he had recently talked with Cienfuegos. He said the army officer, a close associate of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, had shaved his beard and was hiding out in Ybor City, Tampa's Latin quarter. The informant is a prominent historian of Cuban descent.

TV's Dick Clark Happy Over Vote Of Confidence

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dick Clark, television idol of millions of teen-agers, told his nationwide TV "American Bandstand" audience Wednesday — only a few hours after he met secretly with congressional investigators — that he is happy "the people I work for stand behind me."

The 29-year-old Clark, smiling slightly, told the hushed crowd of girls and boys in the studio that since an informant gave his name to counsel for the House probe of the disc jockey business "people have called me, said wonderful things."

Clark's manager, Marvin Josephson, Tuesday disclosed that the TV star was giving up connections with a record firm and three music publishing houses. Besides "Bandstand" Clark also is the star on Saturday and Sunday night shows on the American Broadcasting Co., network.

The House subcommittee on Legislative Oversight, working secretly on a probe of alleged payoffs to disc jockeys to play and promote records, sent two investigators to interview Clark.

The two — Charles Houze and James Kelly—said they had talked with Clark once Wednesday and arranged to see him again Wednesday night. Beyond that they were mum.

ABC in its statement, which Clark read in full, said he "has neither solicited nor accepted any personal considerations—money or otherwise—to have any performer appear — or to play any record—on any of his programs."

ABC said Clark volunteered to divest himself of his interest in the record and music publishing businesses. Clark didn't further amplify.

Buffer Zone Plan Dropped By Macmillan

British Leader, Adenauer Reach Broad Agreement

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan bowed to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Wednesday by finally abandoning Macmillan's pet plan for an experimental disarmament zone in central Europe.

The Macmillan plan, endorsed by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev but assailed by the West Germans, envisaged a zone on both sides of the Iron Curtain in mid-Europe where armaments and armies would be limited.

Compromise Formula

Instead, diplomatic sources said, the British and West German leaders agreed to stick to this compromise formula: Any such zone covering German territory should not be a separate arrangement — as Macmillan urged —but part of a wider East-West disarmament program.

In a domestic political sense the British concession appeared to be a considerable one. Last month in their electoral manifesto, Macmillan's Conservatives pledged cautiously to work for "the inspection and reduction of armaments in areas to be agreed."

Macmillan's ideas of disengagement in central Europe was one of the main sources of West German distrust of his policy of conciliation with the Soviet Union. Adenauer feared a process of Western withdrawal that would leave West Germany exposed to Soviet pressure.

Agree On Agenda

Officials on each side reported broad agreement on the agenda that should be proposed to President Eisenhower and President Charles de Gaulle of France.

This is the agenda Macmillan and Adenauer agreed upon:

1. Disarmament.
2. The problem of Germany, including Berlin.
3. East-West relations in general.

Adenauer originally wanted top priority for disarmament, with the Berlin problem virtually ignored. Macmillan wanted Berlin given top place because it was the crisis over that disputed city which apparently has opened the path to the summit.

Adenauer paid his respects late Wednesday to Sir Winson Churchill, recovering from an indisposition.

Armed Forces' Civilian Chiefs, Ike Will Confer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower followed up a conference with his military chiefs Wednesday by summoning the civilian secretaries of the armed services to Augusta Saturday.

This sequence of events did nothing to dispel indications that tussling and rivalry within the Pentagon itself over the military budget have not subsided.

Eisenhower hopes to get both the military and nonmilitary budgets squared away before he takes off Dec. 3 to cultivate good will in 11 nations.

Budget Director Maurice H. Stans and Eisenhower will sift through the nonmilitary items Thursday. These are expected to add up to almost as much as the 41 billion dollars-plus for national defense.

The 41 billions still is a tentative figure. It was reached Monday in still another Eisenhower conference—with Stans, Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy and a team of military and financial experts.

McElroy came away from that one saying the Navy's bid for a second nuclear-powered aircraft carrier was turned down and the Air Force and Army will get small cuts in manpower.

Eisenhower met with Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the chiefs of the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines.

It was left up in the air whether Eisenhower got off an answer to a letter from Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn), who proposed that the President include former President Harry S. Truman in his party when he sets out for overseas next month.

Wright Warns NATO Of Soviet U-Boat Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Adm. Jerauld Wright, who commands NATO forces in the Atlantic, said Wednesday Soviet missile-firing submarines will be a significant threat to nations of the Western alliance within a year.

Wright predicted that by 1963 the threat will become serious as the Soviet fleet of ballistic missile submarines grows.

Wright, supreme Allied commander for the Atlantic, told representatives of NATO parliaments "We have conclusive evidence that they (the Russians) are showing an increased interest in the east coast of North America, a key area and an industrial complex of the first importance, not only to America, but to our NATO alliance."

In this connection, Wright said Soviet fishing craft operating in the North Atlantic probably are doing other things than fishing—surveying the ocean bottom and other tasks of naval importance, for example.

These Soviet fishing boat operations are "a matter of great concern to us," Wright said. He spoke of the mounting Soviet missile sub menace in urging other countries of the 15-nation Atlantic Alliance to pitch in with more help in defending the sea link between North America and Europe.

Adm. Arleigh A. Burke said, in a speech at a meeting in Los Angeles, this country has high hopes for the deterrent power of its own rocket - launching underwater craft.

Burke, U.S. chief of naval operations, said about 45 subs armed with Polaris missiles "will be able to clobber any aggressor who would dare attack us."

The Navy has said it plans to build several more than 40 of the nuclear-powered submarines equipped to fire hydrogen-tipped Polaris rockets about 1,200 miles. Several such subs have been built, but the Polaris missiles to go with them still are in the test stage.

Jupiter Launched In Versatility Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—A Jupiter IRBM, the missile that is expected to boost at least five more earth satellites into orbit in coming months, rumbled aloft on a programmed intermediate range military flight Wednesday night.

The 60-foot-tall rocket rose under full power of its 150,000-pound-thrust liquid-propelled engine at 8:33 p. m. e.s.t., picking up hypersonic speed as it tore into the misty sky.

The Defense Department in Washington said the missile was fired at less than maximum range and "further demonstrated the systems' versatility."

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty, accompanied by a working party of 27, arrived Wednesday to make arrangements for the visit of President Eisenhower next month.

Rocket Creates Big Sodium Cloud Seen Over Large Area

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A man-made sodium cloud, visible several hundred miles away, was ejected into the upper atmosphere at dusk Wednesday from a rocket fired 150 miles into the air above the Wallops Island, Va., government test center.

The National Aeronautics and Space Agency (NASA), which conducted the test, said it was designed to obtain information about the action of the winds at high altitudes. It was the first of three planned for this week as part of International Rocket Week.

Within minutes after its firing at 5:17 p.m., e.s.t., the rosy-hued cloud was sighted over a wide area of the Atlantic Seaboard as it caught the rays of the setting sun already below the horizon at sea level.

Several points in Connecticut reported spotting the luminous vapor. Residents in Schenectady in upper New York sate said it looked like a simple red cloud with a little tail on it.

NASA conducted its first sodium cloud experiment August 17. It also was seen over a wide area.

NASA said the experiment was designed "to obtain geophysical information on upper wind activity," including its velocity and direction and to test the rate of spreading of vapors at high altitudes.

The cloud was ejected into the upper atmosphere by a two-stage Nike-Asp launching rocket. Equipped with a timing device, the rocket began pouring out the vapor at an altitude of 50 miles, continuing until it reached its peak of 150 miles.

Residents of Richmond, Va., about 100 miles west of the launching site, said the cloud was not nearly as bright or large as that touched off by a similar experiment in August.

Fireman Uses Teeth To Save Tot Tied In Crib

HAMILTON, Ont. (AP) — Fireman John McDade chewed through a plastic crib harness Tuesday night and saved the life of 2-year-old Kenneth Greene.

The fireman collapsed before he could carry out Kenneth's 5-year-old sister Roxanne and the little girl died in the blaze which swept the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Greene.

McDade, first fireman on the scene, rushed upstairs and found the boy asleep, tied in his crib. Unable to tear loose the plastic harness, he gnawed through it with his teeth and carried the boy to a window where neighbors carried the tot down a ladder.

The fireman plunged back into the smoke, groping for the little girl, but collapsed. Other firemen carried him out and revived him.

LONDON (AP) — A Rubens portrait, "Head of a Bearded Man" brought 35,000 pounds — $98,000 — at an art auction Wednesday. It was sent for sale by the Kingston Hall estate in Nottingham. It was bid in by Edward Speelman, a London art dealer.

Record Cold Wave Knifes Into East, Bringing Snow

By The Associated Press

A record November cold wave that numbed the midcontinent and throttled vital iron ore shipments on the Great Lakes blew into the Atlantic seaboard and Deep South on icy winds Wednesday.

The frigid air, passing over the relatively warm Great Lakes, caused heavy snow in parts of Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York State.

Northeastern Ohio had 5 to 8 inches and parts of New York up to 12 inches. The lake port city of Erie, Pa., had 3 inches and roads there were hazardous.

The freezing blasts caused some damage to flowers in the Gulf region and kept the few shivering off-season tourists in the area huddled over heaters and stoves in their cottages and cabins.

The mercury plunged to 26 degrees in Mobile, Ala., on the Gulf. It was one degree above the all time record for the date sent in 1951. Pensacola, Fla., had a freezing 31.

Cold records for the date were shattered in parts of the East and South as the arctic assault completed its sweep of the eastern two-thirds of the nation.

Temperatures were on the rise in the Rockies, Great Plains and western Great Lakes regions, but Great Lakes iron ore shippers still kept their fingers crossed in their dramatic race with approaching winter.

Deliveries of iron ore from Minnesota and northern Michigan to Midwest steel mills may have a viatl bearing on how rapidly the companies recover from the recent steel strike.

'Rebels' Seek His Removal Pending Trial

Teamster Group Urges Impartial Panel Try Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twelve rank-and-file Teamsters Wednesday asked a federal judge to remove James R. Hoffa as provisional president of the Teamsters union pending a trial on corruption charges before an impartial panel.

The request was made in a petition filed in U.S. District Court here by Godfrey P. Schmidt, attorney for the rank-and-file group.

The Teamster group asked Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts to appoint an impartial board of examiners to take evidence on charges against Hoffa and report their decision to the court.

The petition said neither Hoffa nor the Teamsters' executive board had taken any steps to process 164 separate charges filed by the rank-and-file group with the court.

Board Called "Stooges"

It said "no reasonable hope of substantial reform of the teamster movement can be entertained while James R. Hoffa and his cronies control the administration of the international organization."

The rebel group argued that the union's general's executive board, which normally would try union officers accused of misconduct, was not capable of being impartial in Hoffa's case.

The petition said board members are "stooges" of the Teamster chief and would "whitewash" any charges against him and his friends.

"It would, therefore, be a travesty of justice to permit the provisional general executive board to try the foresaid charges," it added.

Earlier Suit Compromised

Hoffa and other international officers were allowed to take office on Jan. 31, 1958, under a compromise settlement of a law suit originally brought by the 12 Teamsters in an effort to oust Hoffa.

They charged that Hoffa conspired to rig his own election to the $50,000-a-year union presidency. Under the compromise, a watchdog board of monitors was established by the court to oversee operations of the Teamsters.

The Supreme Court recently removed a major roadblock to the cleanup drive by refusing to review lower court orders upholding the watchdog group's anti-corruption directives.

The new petition asked that Hoffa be required to give a written answer to the charges against him. It also asked that he be allowed "a reasonable, limited time" to prepare his defense against the allegations.

Youth Admits Killing Divorcee

INDIA, Calif. (UPI)—Would-be cowboy Tord Ove Zeppen - Field was returned to California Wednesday night to face a murder charge for the admitted slaying of a Hollywood divorcee.

Zeppen-Field was immediately placed in jail at this desert city 30 miles east of Palm Springs, Calif., where Lillian Lenorak was beaten to death on Nov. 8. Sheriff's investigators drove Zeppen-Field here after the 21-year - old man confessed to the Lenorak killing at Yuma, Ariz., earlier in the day.

Sheriff's Lt. Ed Brown indicated Zeppen-Field probably would be taken to the scene of the slaying, although no time was given by investigators.

Zeppen - Field was tired and showed obvious strain after the 130-mile trip from Yuma, where he was given a sedative before a hearing in the Arizona city Wednesday afternoon.

Zeppen-Field made his confession to Yuma Sheriff Pete Newman.

The department said it assumed there would be no new anti-American outbreaks during the talks. Department spokesman Lincoln White said he did not know how long Merchant would remain in Panama.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Adm. Jerauld Wright, who commands NATO forces in the Atlantic, said Wednesday Soviet missile-firing submarines will be a significant threat to nations of the Western alliance within a year.

Wright predicted that by 1963 the threat will become serious as the Soviet fleet of ballistic missile submarines grows.

Wright, supreme Allied commander for the Atlantic, told representatives of NATO parliaments "We have conclusive evidence that they (the Russians) are showing an increased interest in the east coast of North America, a key area and an industrial complex of the first importance, not only to America, but to our NATO alliance."

In this connection, Wright said Soviet fishing craft operating in the North Atlantic probably are doing other things than fishing—surveying the ocean bottom and other tasks of naval importance, for example.

These Soviet fishing boat operations are "a matter of great concern to us," Wright said. He spoke of the mounting Soviet missile sub menace in urging other countries of the 15-nation Atlantic Alliance to pitch in with more help in defending the sea link between North America and Europe.

Adm. Arleigh A. Burke said, in a speech at a meeting in Los Angeles, this country has high hopes for the deterrent power of its own rocket - launching underwater craft.

Burke, U.S. chief of naval operations, said about 45 subs armed with Polaris missiles "will be able to clobber any aggressor who would dare attack us."

The Navy has said it plans to build several more than 40 of the nuclear-powered submarines equipped to fire hydrogen-tipped Polaris rockets about 1,200 miles. Several such subs have been built, but the Polaris missiles to go with them still are in the test stage.

Jupiter Launched In Versatility Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—A Jupiter IRBM, the missile that is expected to boost at least five more earth satellites into orbit in coming months, rumbled aloft on a programmed intermediate range military flight Wednesday night.

The 60-foot-tall rocket rose under full power of its 150,000-pound-thrust liquid-propelled engine at 8:33 p. m. e.s.t., picking up hypersonic speed as it tore into the misty sky.

The Defense Department in Washington said the missile was fired at less than maximum range and "further demonstrated the systems' versatility."

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty, accompanied by a working party of 27, arrived Wednesday to make arrangements for the visit of President Eisenhower next month.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A man-made sodium cloud, visible several hundred miles away, was ejected into the upper atmosphere at dusk Wednesday from a rocket fired 150 miles into the air above the Wallops Island, Va., government test center.

The National Aeronautics and Space Agency (NASA), which conducted the test, said it was designed to obtain information about the action of the winds at high altitudes. It was the first of three planned for this week as part of International Rocket Week.

Within minutes after its firing at 5:17 p.m., e.s.t., the rosy-hued cloud was sighted over a wide area of the Atlantic Seaboard as it caught the rays of the setting sun already below the horizon at sea level.

Several points in Connecticut reported spotting the luminous vapor. Residents in Schenectady in upper New York sate said it looked like a simple red cloud with a little tail on it.

NASA conducted its first sodium cloud experiment August 17. It also was seen over a wide area.

NASA said the experiment was designed "to obtain geophysical information on upper wind activity," including its velocity and direction and to test the rate of spreading of vapors at high altitudes.

The cloud was ejected into the upper atmosphere by a two-stage Nike-Asp launching rocket. Equipped with a timing device, the rocket began pouring out the vapor at an altitude of 50 miles, continuing until it reached its peak of 150 miles.

Residents of Richmond, Va., about 100 miles west of the launching site, said the cloud was not nearly as bright or large as that touched off by a similar experiment in August.

Fireman Uses Teeth To Save Tot Tied In Crib

The fireman collapsed before he could carry out Kenneth's 5-year-old sister Roxanne and the little girl died in the blaze which swept the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Greene.

McDade, first fireman on the scene, rushed upstairs and found the boy asleep, tied in his crib. Unable to tear loose the plastic harness, he gnawed through it with his teeth and carried the boy to a window where neighbors carried the tot down a ladder.

The fireman plunged back into the smoke, groping for the little girl, but collapsed. Other firemen carried him out and revived him.

By The Associated Press

A record November cold wave that numbed the midcontinent and throttled vital iron ore shipments on the Great Lakes blew into the Atlantic seaboard and Deep South on icy winds Wednesday.

The frigid air, passing over the relatively warm Great Lakes, caused heavy snow in parts of Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York State.

Northeastern Ohio had 5 to 8 inches and parts of New York up to 12 inches. The lake port city of Erie, Pa., had 3 inches and roads there were hazardous.

The freezing blasts caused some damage to flowers in the Gulf region and kept the few shivering off-season tourists in the area huddled over heaters and stoves in their cottages and cabins.

The mercury plunged to 26 degrees in Mobile, Ala., on the Gulf. It was one degree above the all time record for the date sent in 1951. Pensacola, Fla., had a freezing 31.

Cold records for the date were shattered in parts of the East and South as the arctic assault completed its sweep of the eastern two-thirds of the nation.

Temperatures were on the rise in the Rockies, Great Plains and western Great Lakes regions, but Great Lakes iron ore shippers still kept their fingers crossed in their dramatic race with approaching winter.

Deliveries of iron ore from Minnesota and northern Michigan to Midwest steel mills may have a viatl bearing on how rapidly the companies recover from the recent steel strike.

'Rebels' Seek His Removal Pending Trial

Teamster Group Urges Impartial Panel Try Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twelve rank-and-file Teamsters Wednesday asked a federal judge to remove James R. Hoffa as provisional president of the Teamsters union pending a trial on corruption charges before an impartial panel.

The request was made in a petition filed in U.S. District Court here by Godfrey P. Schmidt, attorney for the rank-and-file group.

The Teamster group asked Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts to appoint an impartial board of examiners to take evidence on charges against Hoffa and report their decision to the court.

The petition said neither Hoffa nor the Teamsters' executive board had taken any steps to process 164 separate charges filed by the rank-and-file group with the court.

Board Called "Stooges"

It said "no reasonable hope of substantial reform of the teamster movement can be entertained while James R. Hoffa and his cronies control the administration of the international organization."

The rebel group argued that the union's general's executive board, which normally would try union officers accused of misconduct, was not capable of being impartial in Hoffa's case.

The petition said board members are "stooges" of the Teamster chief and would "whitewash" any charges against him and his friends.

"It would, therefore, be a travesty of justice to permit the provisional general executive board to try the foresaid charges," it added.

Earlier Suit Compromised

Hoffa and other international officers were allowed to take office on Jan. 31, 1958, under a compromise settlement of a law suit originally brought by the 12 Teamsters in an effort to oust Hoffa.

They charged that Hoffa conspired to rig his own election to the $50,000-a-year union presidency. Under the compromise, a watchdog board of monitors was established by the court to oversee operations of the Teamsters.

The Supreme Court recently removed a major roadblock to the cleanup drive by refusing to review lower court orders upholding the watchdog group's anti-corruption directives.

The new petition asked that Hoffa be required to give a written answer to the charges against him. It also asked that he be allowed "a reasonable, limited time" to prepare his defense against the allegations.

Youth Admits Killing Divorcee

INDIA, Calif. (UPI)—Would-be cowboy Tord Ove Zeppen - Field was returned to California Wednesday night to face a murder charge for the admitted slaying of a Hollywood divorcee.

Zeppen-Field was immediately placed in jail at this desert city 30 miles east of Palm Springs, Calif., where Lillian Lenorak was beaten to death on Nov. 8. Sheriff's investigators drove Zeppen-Field here after the 21-year - old man confessed to the Lenorak killing at Yuma, Ariz., earlier in the day.

Sheriff's Lt. Ed Brown indicated Zeppen-Field probably would be taken to the scene of the slaying, although no time was given by investigators.

Zeppen - Field was tired and showed obvious strain after the 130-mile trip from Yuma, where he was given a sedative before a hearing in the Arizona city Wednesday afternoon.

Zeppen-Field made his confession to Yuma Sheriff Pete Newman.

State Dept. Official To Fly To Panama

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Undersecretary of State Livingston Merchant will fly to Panama Friday in an attempt to solve "misunderstandings" which resulted in anti-American violence there, the State Department said Wednesday.

The department said it assumed there would be no new anti-American outbreaks during the talks. Department spokesman Lincoln White said he did not know how long Merchant would remain in Panama.

Latin America Is Awakening To Communism, Soviets Told

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet readers were told Wednesday "revolutionary battles in Venezuela and the heroic struggle of the Cuban people for their independence" show that Latin America is awakening to a big thaw in its relations with the Communist world.

An article on this subject, one of many reflecting a sudden lively Soviet interest in Latin American affairs, appeared in the official Communist party newspaper Pravda. It coincided with the visit of First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan to Mexico to open a Soviet cultural, scientific and industrial exhibition.

Pravda told its readers that the visit of Premier Nikita Khrushchev to the United States in September had an enormous impact and Latin America is beginning to realize the full meaning of that event.

"The historic visit of Khrushchev to the U.S.A. and his proposal for total and complete disarmament proclaimed by him from the United Nations rostrum have had tremendous impact on millions of Latin Americans," said the article.

The article dwelt on the prospects of Soviet trade with Latin America. Mikoyan is an expert in foreign trade.

"The cold war is an obstacle to broader business contacts between the countries of Latin America and other states," the Pravda article said.

"As a result, the warehouses of Buenos Aires, Santiago, Rio de Janeiro and Havana are fairly bursting with unsold goods. More than 20 million sacks of coffee are awaiting buyers in Brazil. . . ."

Study Warns U. S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A study prepared for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee warned the United States to brace itself for increased Russian efforts to infiltrate Latin America "for an indefinite period" ahead.

The study, prepared by the University of New Mexico, said the social revolution now in progress south of the border not only will continue but will speed up because the people of the area are determined to catch up with more advanced nations.

REAL LIFE DRAMA — A real life drama was unfolded in Redwood City, Calif., yesterday as Alexander Robillard, 19, fumbling with a handkerchief, broke down and cried as he told how he killed a policeman who stopped him on a lonely road in a stolen car. (AP Photofax)

Youth, 19, Sobs As He Tells How He Slew Officer

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)—A 19-year-old youth who turned thief because "I wanted to be a big shot" broke down and cried like a baby Wednesday while telling newsmen how he killed a policeman who stopped him on a lonely road in a stolen car.

Alexander Robillard's guilty plea leaves only the punishment to be determined for the Aug. 5 slaying of Hillsborough officer Gene Doran.

The youth said Doran's first radio check with headquarters was negative on whether the car was stolen and Doran had started to walk back to his patrol car. Then a woman's voice came in over the San Bruno police radio saying, "Just hang on; it may be hot."

Doran told Robillard he was going to search him.

"I had that damned gun — a stolen .32 gold-plated special—in my pocket," Robillard said.

"I couldn't see a way I could throw it over the bank or anything. I don't know. I didn't think. I reached in my pocket real fast and then he — Doran — drew his gun. The next thing I knew, I was just standing there clicking the gun."

3 Pedestrians Struck, Killed By Autos In Md.

By The Associated Press

Three pedestrians—two of them children — were fatally injured when struck by vehicles on Maryland streets Wednesday.

In addition, a woman injured in an auto-truck crash Tuesday died in a Havre de Grace hospital.

State Police headquarters at Pikesville said the state toll for the year stands at 458 compared with 438 for the similar period of 1958.

Judith Ann Cotter, four-year-old Silver Spring girl, was hit by a car when she ran from behind a parked car at Charles and Highview Roads in Silver Spring, police said. The driver was identified as Philip Gilfo Jr., 26, of Silver Spring.

William Nelson, 16, of Joppa got out of a car and was crossing Maryland Routes 7 and 152 at Havre de Grace early Wednesday night when he was hit by another auto. State Police did not have an identification of the driver immediately.

At Cumberland, Mrs. Mary Spraino was fatally injured when hit by a delivery truck as she and a companion crossed Green and Washington Streets. The 49-year-old woman, of Keyser, W. Va., died a little more than an hour afterward in Sacred Heart Hospital.

Her companion, Mrs. Carmelia Jeffries, 33, of Piedmont, W. Va., suffered a fractured right arm and an injury to her right leg. Police said the truck driver was Jack C. Trexler of Cumberland.

Earlier Wednesday, Mrs. Della Christian Higgins, about 30, of North East, died in Harford Memorial Hospital at Havre de Grace. She was driving a car that collided Tuesday with a tractor-trailer at U. S. Route 40 and Maryland Route 7 in Havre de Grace.

Labor Group Attacks MPA

BALTIMORE (AP) — A spokesman for maritime union members in Baltimore asked Gov. Tawes Wednesday to stop what he called the Maryland Port Authority's discrimination against organized labor.

The Maritime Trades Department of the AFL-CIO contended that MPA administrative personnel have been completely excluding labor fromt he agency's activities and plans.

"We call upon you to investigate past policy of this agency to determine why labor is ignored," wrote Walter H. Sibley, executive secretary of the union's Baltimore Port Council.

Sibley cited two instances of what he meant. In one case, he said, a qualified man from the ranks of labor was not considered for a vacancy on MPA's Board of Commissioners, and the appointment went instead to D. Luke Hopkins, a Baltimore County banker.

Sibley also said there was no mention of organized labor in the "Port of Baltimore Handbook: 1959 - 60" — which was "sent throughout the country and into many foreign lands."

Three Little Sisters Die In W.Va. Fire

MULLENS, W. Va. (UPI) — Three baby sisters died in a fire that destroyed their home here Wednesday.

Victims of the blaze were Pearleen, 3; Perita, 2, and Deborah Cook, 6 months, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Early Cook. Cook was at work in his job as a hotel elevator operator and Mrs. Cook was shopping at a store at the time of the blaze.

Mullens Fire Captain B. L. Goad said the cause of the blaze was not immediately determined. He said the three - room, frame house was engulfed within a few minutes.

The three children, who were badly burned, apparently had been asleep on a single bed.

Freight Derails In Culpepper, Va., Blocking Street

CULPEPPER, Va. (UPI)—Thirteen freight cars near the end of a 97-car train bumped off the tracks Wednesday, blocking the rail line and at least one street with debris, crushing an auto and smashing the windshield of another.

Utility poles were knocked loose from overturned flat cars and splintered as they were hurled across the tracks.

There were no injuries, but the wreck blocked a siding and two main tracks of the Southern Railway. One was cleared about six hours later and traffic resumed.

One freight car jacknifed across a street at the northern edge of Culpepper where the derailment occurred and sideswiped a parked auto, crushing it. A hunk of flying debris smashed the windshield of another car.

Tawes Will Act To Speed Mental Hospital Work

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. Tawes said Wednesday he will request the General Assembly to speed up needed construction at Spring Grove State Hospital.

He will include 2½ million dollars in his capital improvements program for a new general administrative service building with three 100 bed units, instead of two as originally planned, and to complete a 200-bed infirmary building.

"In this manner, we shall be able to advance the date of the abandonment and demolition of the old center building by an estimated year to a year and a half" Tawes told the Council of Women's Auxiliaries of Maryland State Mental Hospitals.

"I am determined that this ancient structure, with its handicaps for hospital administration and its hazards to the 800 patients housed therein, shall be eliminated as quickly as possible," he said.

The building, erected in 1853, has been criticized by Legislative Council committees and grand juries. Tawes said he hopes to see it razed "before my present term as governor expires."

"Our mental hospitals are no longer Maryland's shame, but we must not rest until they become Maryland's pride," he said.

Tawes praised the work Dr. Clifton T. Perkins as commissioner of mental hygiene for nine years before his death last week. He was brought to the state to correct conditions which had been labeled by a newspaper campaign as "Maryland's shame."

"Dr. Perkins possessed the rare gifts of mind and soul that equipped him to be a good administrator, an excellent physician and a great humanitarian," the governor said.

The earth is at least three billion years old, according to some scientists.

Ballot Counting Set Tomorrow

Tomorrow afternoon, Paul M. Galbreath, assistant Extension soil conservationist, will assist in counting the ballots cast by Allegany County landowners who are electing three members of the Board of Supervisors of the Allegany Soil Conservation District.

Also counting the ballots will be Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent, Charles Harvey and Wilbert Paugh, state-appointed supervisors.

Today is the final day landowners may cast their ballots at Mr. Steger's office, which will be open from 8:30 a. m. until 4 p. m. Many farmers mailed their ballots to the office.

The supervisors who are elected by the farmers will be in office for a period of three years.

Cumberlanders Cleared In Assault Probe

City police yesterday cleared two Cumberland men being held on charges arising from a disturbance here of being connected with an assault and robbery in Morgan County, W.Va., Tuesday afternoon.

Lt. James E. Van said an investigation showed the men were not involved.

The young men were arrested Tuesday night for creating a disturbance in a restaurant in Cumberland.

They were ordered held for investigation after it was discovered they answered the description of two of a trio who assaulted a man Tuesday afternoon, robbed him of about $140 and then drove off with his car.

Cpl. C. B. Burke of the Berkeley Springs detachment of West Virginia State Police, said he was notified of the incident about 2:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The man who was assaulted and robbed was identified as George H. Roberts, 41, of Buffalo, a former resident of Virginia. Roberts told Cpl. Burke he was en route to Buffalo from his old home when he picked up three hitchhikers in Staunton, Va. He described them as being white males in their 20s.

After becoming tired, Roberts asked one of the hitchhikers to take over the wheel. Shortly after crossing the Morgan County line, the driver turned off of Route 522 onto a dirt road leading to the Rocky Gap section, Cpl. Burke said he was informed.

After driving up the road for about a mile, the driver stopped the car and the three men assaulted Roberts, took his wallet containing about $140 and threw him from his car.

Roberts walked until he found a farmhouse where he requested the family to get in touch with authorities. The car was found abandoned late that afternoon in Cumberland.

Agony In Red Chinese Paradise

the median range, having received rice or rice and sweet potato rations of about half the official minimum, or 3.5 to 4.5 Chinese ounces per meal at two meals a day. The average was eight ounces of rice, or less than an American pound of pure starch daily.

Sixth, the bottom quarter of our cases had received rations which would have been almost incredible if they were not so well attested. The worst was 2.6 ounces of rice per day with a couple of bowls of rotten sweet potatoes. All cases in this lowest range had been receiving rations of one-third or less of the officially established minimum for their working category.

Seventh, the grain rations reported for heavy workers in the communes are, in themselves, grossly misleading. Children, old people, and often even the women who are required to work just as hard as the men, receive much lower rations than the top graded male workers. Thus only a single man with no surviving parents could count on eating his entire ration. All others were forced to share their rations with their families in varying degrees.

Eighth, the inadequacy of the general grain ration was actually only one part of the ugly picture. Judging by the unanimous eye witness testimony, the Chinese peasantry are now being required to live on a daily diet of almost pure starch and not enough of that. For example, after the communes abolished private vegetable plots, there had been no vegetables at all except sweet potato tops. Even after private plots were again allowed this summer, commune work demands were too heavy to permit many vegetables being grown. Numerous cases of grass eating, bark eating, and leaf eating were reported.

Ninth, as for fats and proteins, these were mere dreams of the past in the communes. No case was reported of a ration of cooking oil above two ounces per month. The standard was a monthly ration of one ounce. In one of the communes where the rice ration was highest, the oil ration was only four-tenths of an ounce per month. A few of those interrogated had received a small issue of pork for Chinese New Year, but most of them had tasted their first meat in a year or more when they ate their first meal in Macao. Some communes offered their workers small quantities of fish each month—which was generally available only to the strongest workers, with extra pay for labor credits, since the fish had to be bought at high prices. Other communes offered no fish at all. And the ancient protein staple of the Chinese poor, beancurd, appeared to have vanished altogether.

In sum, these Chinese peasants we interrogated had been working and living in their communes on a level rather worse than Mediterranean galley slaves, who were at least given issues of onions and cheap wine with their bread. They had all but shared the experience of the Indian slaves whom the Spanish Conquistadors condemned to the horror of the mines.

Further reports will examine the degree of reliability of this kind of eyewitness testimony, and will inquire into the Chinese Communist government's possible motives for treating the huge peasant majority of their own people almost as the Conquistadors treated the Indians of Mexico and Peru.

State Committee Reports Overuse Of Hospitals

BALTIMORE (AP)—A legislative committee studying hospital costs and Blue Cross rates has received a doctors' report citing overuse of facilities at a Baltimore hospital by insured patients.

The report by leaders of the medical staff at Franklin Square Hospital claimed there are "significant" abuses in usage of the hospital, "particularly among insured patients."

The "overutilization" discovered was primarily in areas of "unnecessary admissions, irrelevant procedures and excessive lengths of stay," the report said.

Dr. Donald B. Hebb, chairman of the medical executive committee at the hospital, made the report to Dr. C. Reid Edwards, who heads a study group of doctors sponsored by Blue Cross and the Maryland Hospital Council.

Dr. Edwards Tuesday turned the report over to Sen. John Clarence North (D-Talbot), chairman of the special legislative committee.

North said Dr. Edwards concluded that similar situations could be found in virtually all hospitals.

North called the report "most praiseworthy." He said "it will help break down the general reluctance on the part of hospitals and doctors to even admit that there is reason to question hospital costs and usage."

Dr. Hebb's report said abuses n hospital usage will be eliminated only through changes in the "framework" of Blue Cross and other hospital insurance contracts.

But R. H. Dabney, executive director of the Maryland Blue Cross plan, disagreed. Informed of the report, Dabney said doctors are the controlling factor in hospital usage and a change in the structure of benefits is not the solution.

Dabney said he will arrange an early meeting with the staff committee at Franklin Square Hospital.

"Cases of overutilization cannot be condoned," he said. "If we are satisfied that they do exist, our next step will be to urge this committee to bring positive pressure to bear upon the physicians responsible for such cases to assure such instances are not repeated."

The North committee was appointed after the second increase in two years in Blue Cross rates, which are based on hospital costs. It has conducted a series of hearings at which hospital officials and doctors generally claimed there is little abuse of Blue Cross benefits.

North said his committee will recommend three bills at the next General Assembly. They would require hospitals to adopt uniform accounting procedures, require the director of the State Health Department to certify the "reasonableness" of certain hospital costs and reorganize the board of directors of Maryland Hospital Service, which operates Blue Cross.

North said his committee will make an interim report to the Legislative Council next month but will ask to continue its work with the view that it has spurred more self-study by hospitals.

Tomorrow afternoon, Paul M. Galbreath, assistant Extension soil conservationist, will assist in counting the ballots cast by Allegany County landowners who are electing three members of the Board of Supervisors of the Allegany Soil Conservation District.

Also counting the ballots will be Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent, Charles Harvey and Wilbert Paugh, state-appointed supervisors.

Today is the final day landowners may cast their ballots at Mr Steger's office, which will be open from 8:30 a. m. until 4 p. m. Many farmers mailed their ballots to the office.

The supervisors who are elected by the farmers will be in office for a period of three years.

Cumberlanders Cleared In Assault Probe

City police yesterday cleared two Cumberland men being held on charges arising from a disturbance here of being connected with an assault and robbery in Morgan County, W.Va., Tuesday afternoon.

Lt. James E. Van said an investigation showed the men were not involved.

The young men were arrested Tuesday night for creating a disturbance in a restaurant in Cumberland.

They were ordered held for investigation after it was discovered they answered the description of two of a trio who assaulted a man Tuesday afternoon, robbed him of about $140 and then drove off with his car.

Cpl. C. B. Burke of the Berkeley Springs detachment of West Virginia State Police, said he was notified of the incident about 2:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The man who was assaulted and robbed was identified as George H. Roberts, 41, of Buffalo, a former resident of Virginia. Roberts told Cpl. Burke he was en route to Buffalo from his old home when he picked up three hitchhikers in Staunton, Va. He described them as being white males in their 20s.

After becoming tired, Roberts asked one of the hitchhikers to take over the wheel. Shortly after crossing the Morgan County line, the driver turned off of Route 522 onto a dirt road leading to the Rocky Gap section, Cpl. Burke said he was informed.

After driving up the road for about a mile, the driver stopped the car and the three men assaulted Roberts, took his wallet containing about $140 and threw him from his car.

Roberts walked until he found a farmhouse where he requested the family to get in touch with authorities. The car was found abandoned late that afternoon in Cumberland.

the median range, having received rice or rice and sweet potato rations of about half the official minimum, or 3.5 to 4.5 Chinese ounces per meal at two meals a day. The average was eight ounces of rice, or less than an American pound of pure starch daily.

Sixth, the bottom quarter of our cases had received rations which would have been almost incredible if they were not so well attested. The worst was 2.6 ounces of rice per day with a couple of bowls of rotten sweet potatoes. All cases in this lowest range had been receiving rations of one-third or less of the officially established minimum for their working category.

Seventh, the grain rations reported for heavy workers in the communes are, in themselves, grossly misleading. Children, old people, and often even the women who are required to work just as hard as the men, receive much lower rations than the top graded male workers. Thus only a single man with no surviving parents could count on eating his entire ration. All others were forced to share their rations with their families in varying degrees.

Eighth, the inadequacy of the general grain ration was actually only one part of the ugly picture. Judging by the unanimous eye witness testimony, the Chinese peasantry are now being required to live on a daily diet of almost pure starch and not enough of that. For example, after the communes abolished private vegetable plots, there had been no vegetables at all except sweet potato tops. Even after private plots were again allowed this summer, commune work demands were too heavy to permit many vegetables being grown. Numerous cases of grass eating, bark eating, and leaf eating were reported.

Ninth, as for fats and proteins, these were mere dreams of the past in the communes. No case was reported of a ration of cooking oil above two ounces per month. The standard was a monthly ration of one ounce. In one of the communes where the rice ration was highest, the oil ration was only four-tenths of an ounce per month. A few of those interrogated had received a small issue of pork for Chinese New Year, but most of them had tasted their first meat in a year or more when they ate their first meal in Macao. Some communes offered their workers small quantities of fish each month—which was generally available only to the strongest workers, with extra pay for labor credits, since the fish had to be bought at high prices. Other communes offered no fish at all. And the ancient protein staple of the Chinese poor, beancurd, appeared to have vanished altogether.

In sum, these Chinese peasants we interrogated had been working and living in their communes on a level rather worse than Mediterranean galley slaves, who were at least given issues of onions and cheap wine with their bread. They had all but shared the experience of the Indian slaves whom the Spanish Conquistadors condemned to the horror of the mines.

Further reports will examine the degree of reliability of this kind of eyewitness testimony, and will inquire into the Chinese Communist government's possible motives for treating the huge peasant majority of their own people almost as the Conquistadors treated the Indians of Mexico and Peru.

Confirms Discovery

State Committee Reports Overuse Of Hospitals

BALTIMORE (AP)—A legislative committee studying hospital costs and Blue Cross rates has received a doctors' report citing overuse of facilities at a Baltimore hospital by insured patients.

The report by leaders of the medical staff at Franklin Square Hospital claimed there are "significant" abuses in usage of the hospital, "particularly among insured patients."

The "overutilization" discovered was primarily in areas of "unnecessary admissions, irrelevant procedures and excessive lengths of stay," the report said.

Dr. Donald B. Hebb, chairman of the medical executive committee at the hospital, made the report to Dr. C. Reid Edwards, who heads a study group of doctors sponsored by Blue Cross and the Maryland Hospital Council.

Dr. Edwards Tuesday turned the report over to Sen. John Clarence North (D-Talbot), chairman of the special legislative committee.

North said Dr. Edwards concluded that similar situations could be found in virtually all hospitals.

North called the report "most praiseworthy." He said "it will help break down the general reluctance on the part of hospitals and doctors to even admit that there is reason to question hospital costs and usage."

Dr. Hebb's report said abuses n hospital usage will be eliminated only through changes in the "framework" of Blue Cross and other hospital insurance contracts.

But R. H. Dabney, executive director of the Maryland Blue Cross plan, disagreed. Informed of the report, Dabney said doctors are the controlling factor in hospital usage and a change in the structure of benefits is not the solution.

Dabney said he will arrange an early meeting with the staff committee at Franklin Square Hospital.

"Cases of overutilization cannot be condoned," he said. "If we are satisfied that they do exist, our next step will be to urge this committee to bring positive pressure to bear upon the physicians responsible for such cases to assure such instances are not repeated."

The North committee was appointed after the second increase in two years in Blue Cross rates, which are based on hospital costs. It has conducted a series of hearings at which hospital officials and doctors generally claimed there is little abuse of Blue Cross benefits.

North said his committee will recommend three bills at the next General Assembly. They would require hospitals to adopt uniform accounting procedures, require the director of the State Health Department to certify the "reasonableness" of certain hospital costs and reorganize the board of directors of Maryland Hospital Service, which operates Blue Cross.

North said his committee will make an interim report to the Legislative Council next month but will ask to continue its work with the view that it has spurred more self-study by hospitals.

Advertising Dates Set For Highway Projects

Include Construction In 11 Counties

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Roads Commission announced Wednesday approval of a partial program of advertising for more than 13 million dollars worth of highway construction.

SRC Chairman John B. Funk said that about 10 million dollars in additional projects would be programmed and submitted to the commission for approval next month.

The period covered in the program approved Wednesday includes projects scheduled for the remainder of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1960. About 25 million dollars had been programmed for advertising between July and December, 1959.

Wednesday's announcement includes 16 projects in 11 counties.

The larger highway jobs scheduled are the Cabin John bridge to carry the Washington Circumferential highway over the Potomac River, dualization of the Baltimore - Harrisburg Expressway from Shawan road to Mount Carmel road, and the Washington Circumferential section from Maryland 210 to Jones Point, including a section of the Anacostia Freeway.

The SRC said adoption of the latest program will mean that 21 of the 23 counties will have 85 per cent or more of the mileage scheduled for the first four years of the 12 year program either completed, under construction, or advertised.

The projects and advertising dates include:

Improvement of Maryland 402 from 3.13 east of Maryland 2 to Dares Beach, Calvert County, Jan. 26.

Cabin John Bridge, Feb. 2.

Washington Circumferential highway from Maryland 210 to Jones Point, including Anacostia Freeway, March 8.

Additional surfacing (second stage construction) to Maryland 290 from Galena to Sassafrass, Kent County, April 5.

Grading and drainage Maryland 23 from U. S. 1 to Maryland 165, Harford County, April 5.

Second stage construction Maryland 3 from Glen Burnie bypass to Benfield road, Anne Arundel County, April 12.

Reconstruction Maryland 32 from 3.44 miles south of U. S. 40 toward Clarksville, Howard County, May 3.

Second stage construction Maryland 2 from Prince Frederick bypass to Lusby, Calvert County, May 10.

Second stage construction Maryland 6, LaPlata to McConchie, Charles County, June 7.

Grading and drainage Maryland 4 from Ritchie road to Hills bridge, Prince Georges County, June 7.

Second stage construction Maryland 5 from Clinton to T.B., Prince Georges County, June 14.

Three Children Perish In Fire At Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — Three young children were burned to death Wednesday in a fire that swept through their second-floor bedroom in a South Baltimore rowhouse.

The dead were Lea Rae Robinson, 3, Leroy Robinson Jr., 2, and Ada Virginia Robinson, 10 months, all Negroes.

Their mother was stopped by flames when she tried to climb the stairs to the second floor. She ran into the street screaming for help. The father, Leroy Robinson, rushed home from his job at a shipyard.

Both mother and father were treated for shock.

The house was gutted by the flames and houses on each side were damaged by smoke and water. The occupants of the adjacent houses were evacuated.

Cause of the fire was not determined immediately.

State Highway Travel Up 152%

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Roads Commission made official Wednesday what motorists suspected all along.

Traffic and travel on the states principal highways jumped 152 per cent between 1948 and 1958, or more than twice the national average.

The report was made by Ernest W. Bunting, assistant to the director of the SRC's traffic division.

The greatest increase during the decade occurred in counties with the greatest urban concentration. Rural Queen Annes County, however, recorded a startling 185 per cent boost.

Montgomery County recorded the largest increase in daily traffic mileage — from 618,370 in 1948 to 2,000,428 in 1958 — a jump of 223 per cent. Allegany showed the smallest increase, the count jumping from 256,725 to 446,288 miles or a gain of 74 per cent.

Fire Investigated For Possible Arson

RIDGEVILLE, Md. (AP) — State Police launched an investigation today to determine if arson was the cause of a fire that destroyed an unoccupied seven-room house in this Carroll County town Tuesday night.

The frame house, located on Watersville road just off U.S. 40, was owned by Harry Dove of Ridgeville.

Firemen from Ellicott City, Mt. Airy and Sykesville were unable to save the structure because high winds fanned the flames.

Gov. Tawes Receives Teachers' Pay Plan

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gov.Tawes received from officials of the Maryland State Teachers Assn. Wednesday the group's requests for salary hikes for teachers.

After the 45-minute conference, Tawes said he had no comment on the meeting. He said he was meeting with a Legislative Council committee handling fiscal matters on Friday to discuss the teacher-pay proposal.

The association has asked for about 15 million dollars in raises for teachers throughout the state.

Champion Steer Brings $3 Pound

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — The grand champion steer of the Eastern National Livestock show was sold at auction Wednesday for $3 a pound.

The 950 pound Hereford was worth $2,850 to his owner, 17-year-old Dennis Henrichs of Woodville, Ohio. It was bought by the William Schludberberg-T. J. Kurdle Co. of Baltimore.

The reserve grand champion, exhibited by 17-year-old James Linthicum of Dayton, Md. sold for $1.60 a pound for a total of $1,348. It was purchased by Raymond Heinz of Baltimore.

Young Linthicum, a deaf mute, also received $1,200 more from exhibitors at the show in recognization of his work as a 4-H youngster.

The livestock exhibition will close Thursday.

Over 45,000,000 of the 51,000,000 U.S. households — or 88% of all U.S. households — will receive a daily newspaper today.

Teacher Accused Of Beating Student

FREDERICK (AP) — E. Maurice Clark, teacher-principal of the Sabillasville elementary school, has been served with a warrant charging that he struck and beat one of his classroom students on November 6.

The student, Linda Ann Bentzel of Cullen, complained that Clark went to her desk and beat her with a yardstick.

According to the report of the examining physician, Linda had been badly bruised on her back. Her parents said she has been quite nervous since the incident.

Trial has been scheduled in Magistrate's Court here on November 24.

The period covered in the program approved Wednesday includes projects scheduled for the remainder of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1960. About 25 million dollars had been programmed for advertising between July and December, 1959.

Wednesday's announcement includes 16 projects in 11 counties.

The larger highway jobs scheduled are the Cabin John bridge to carry the Washington Circumferential highway over the Potomac River, dualization of the Baltimore - Harrisburg Expressway from Shawan road to Mount Carmel road, and the Washington Circumferential section from Maryland 210 to Jones Point, including a section of the Anacostia Freeway.

The SRC said adoption of the latest program will mean that 21 of the 23 counties will have 85 per cent or more of the mileage scheduled for the first four years of the 12 year program either completed, under construction, or advertised.

The projects and advertising dates include:

Improvement of Maryland 402 from 3.13 east of Maryland 2 to Dares Beach, Calvert County, Jan. 26.

Cabin John Bridge, Feb. 2.

Three Children Perish In Fire At Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — Three young children were burned to death Wednesday in a fire that swept through their second-floor bedroom in a South Baltimore rowhouse.

The dead were Lea Rae Robinson, 3, Leroy Robinson Jr., 2, and Ada Virginia Robinson, 10 months, all Negroes.

Their mother was stopped by flames when she tried to climb the stairs to the second floor. She ran into the street screaming for help. The father, Leroy Robinson, rushed home from his job at a shipyard.

Both mother and father were treated for shock.

The house was gutted by the flames and houses on each side were damaged by smoke and water. The occupants of the adjacent houses were evacuated.

Cause of the fire was not determined immediately.

State Highway Travel Up 152%

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Roads Commission made official Wednesday what motorists suspected all along.

Traffic and travel on the states principal highways jumped 152 per cent between 1948 and 1958, or more than twice the national average.

The report was made by Ernest W. Bunting, assistant to the director of the SRC's traffic division.

The greatest increase during the decade occurred in counties with the greatest urban concentration. Rural Queen Annes County, however, recorded a startling 185 per cent boost.

Montgomery County recorded the largest increase in daily traffic mileage — from 618,370 in 1948 to 2,000,428 in 1958 — a jump of 223 per cent. Allegany showed the smallest increase, the count jumping from 256,725 to 446,288 miles or a gain of 74 per cent.

Fire Investigated For Possible Arson

RIDGEVILLE, Md. (AP) — State Police launched an investigation today to determine if arson was the cause of a fire that destroyed an unoccupied seven-room house in this Carroll County town Tuesday night.

The frame house, located on Watersville road just off U.S. 40, was owned by Harry Dove of Ridgeville.

Firemen from Ellicott City, Mt. Airy and Sykesville were unable to save the structure because high winds fanned the flames.

Gov. Tawes Receives Teachers' Pay Plan

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gov. Tawes received from officials of the Maryland State Teachers Assn. Wednesday the group's requests for salary hikes for teachers.

After the 45-minute conference, Tawes said he had no comment on the meeting. He said he was meeting with a Legislative Council committee handling fiscal matters on Friday to discuss the teacher-pay proposal.

The association has asked for about 15 million dollars in raises for teachers throughout the state.

Champion Steer Brings $3 Pound

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — The grand champion steer of the Eastern National Livestock show was sold at auction Wednesday for $3 a pound.

The 950 pound Hereford was worth $2,850 to his owner, 17-year-old Dennis Henrichs of Woodville, Ohio. It was bought by the William Schludberberg-T. J. Kurdle Co. of Baltimore.

The reserve grand champion, exhibited by 17-year-old James Linthicum of Dayton, Md. sold for $1.60 a pound for a total of $1,348. It was purchased by Raymond Heinz of Baltimore.

Young Linthicum, a deaf mute, also received $1,200 more from exhibitors at the show in recognization of his work as a 4-H youngster.

The livestock exhibition will close Thursday.

Over 45,000,000 of the 51,000,000 U.S. households — or 88% of all U.S. households — will receive a daily newspaper today.

Teacher Accused Of Beating Student

FREDERICK (AP) — E. Maurice Clark, teacher-principal of the Sabillasville elementary school, has been served with a warrant charging that he struck and beat one of his classroom students on November 6.

The student, Linda Ann Bentzel of Cullen, complained that Clark went to her desk and beat her with a yardstick.

According to the report of the examining physician, Linda had been badly bruised on her back. Her parents said she has been quite nervous since the incident.

City Residents To Get Copy Of Garbage Plan

E. A. Daugherty, city garbage contractor, said it is hoped to distribute to every home in Cumberland soon a list of rules and regulations which will govern collections.

The rules were reviewed by the Board of Health and approximately 14,000 have been printed. They are in handy form and may be hung easily at a vantage point in the house.

The list of rules has been published previously but one correction has been made by Daugherty from that contained in the printed form.

Daugherty said that ashes should be placed in metal containers holding not in excess of one bushel (instead of two as listed) or 40 pounds in weight before being placed at the curb.

The task of loading a two-bushel container of ashes would become almost impossible in wet weather because the dampened ashes could weigh as much as 100 pounds or more, Daugherty said.

Daugherty also urged that residents have garbage at the curb by 11 p. m. or collection nights. Trucks start on the routes exactly at that hour, he said, and in most cases where complaints have been received about non-collections, the reason has been that residents did not have garbage at the curb on time.

Maryland 4-H Girl Is Project Winner

CHICAGO (AP) — A Maryland girl is among a group of 47 4-H Club members chosen winners in the 1959 club electric program for outstanding electrical projects for improving their homes and farms.

The 4-H said Wednesday that Mary Jane Wharff, 16, of Woodbine, Md. was among those awarded expense-paid trips to the National 4-H Club Congress opening here Nov. 29.

The electric program is sponsored by the Westinghouse Educational Foundation.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

How To Outwit Overweight

Surely no one reaches an embarrassing weight with her eyes wide open all the way. All women have too much vanity to spoil their figures deliberately. It must be that pounds pile on unnoticed, or while the weight gainer refuses to race herself in a full-length mirror.

Weight adds slowly, and a good thing it is, too. Since the increase is gradual, pound by pound, there's only the pound to lose when it's discovered the day it appears. And that's the secret of outwitting overweight before it outwits you — be watchful every day, do something about an excess pound instantly, and there never will be the problem of losing ten pounds, or fifteen, or more.

Install an accurate scale as the first ounce of prevention, so there won't be uncounted pounds to cure. Some scales don't tell the truth anymore, often the old ones that were low-priced and depend on spring mechanisms—which sometimes sag under long, hard use. Scales of a newer type operate on a coined beam and lever principle much as doctors' scales do, to provide more dependable accuracy. Don't try to tell the difference between scales by looking. Ask what type the scale is in the store or read the label.

To check a scale's accuracy, set the indicator at zero, get on, then off, and watch the indicator as it returns to base. If it doesn't return evenly and at once, the scale can be suspected of unreliability.

If you know excess pounds threaten, there's not a day to lose. Or, rather, this is the day to lose if the scale says you should, and it's time to find out. The shock that could come in a month or two is no trick to avoid when both the scale and your eating check weight pound by pound. Make the checking routine and it's so easy to stay trim.

TOMORROW: Party Pretty Looks.

Whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same — YOUR BEAUTY DIET will provide you with a pattern of safe, laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. Woman Loses $2,400 Civil Suit In Frederick

FREDERICK (AP) — A Circuit Court jury denied a $2,400 civil claims suit for a Cumberland woman Tuesday.

Mrs. Edith Henry of Cumberland, described by the defense as a "fortune teller," said she gave William Don Ryland, 27, of Baltimore and Accident, Md., $2,000 in cash, for which she obtained a note. She said she also bought clothes for him, as well as a shotgun and boating accessories for his family.

Edward J. Ryan, of Cumberland, representing Mrs. Henry said the two parties had once been close friends. Upon the death of Mrs. Henry's husband in July, 1955, he said, Ryland approached her, wanting $2,000 in cash to buy a car.

Ryland denied signing the note or even seeing it until the note appeared in court records. His mother testified that Ryland received money to buy a car from a business in which her husband had an interest.

Judge Ralph G. Fhure, of Rockville, presided.

AWAY, DOWN SOUTH

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Three Tennessee Williams plays about life in the South were recently in production at the same time —but none of them in the South.

TIES THAT BIND

SINGAPORE (UPI) — A 14-year-old boy pleaded successfully before a magistrate for permission to stay in a reformatory school here.

"I have decided to cut all ties with my gang," he explained, and "this will not be easy if I am set free."

Church-Related Schools Show Amazing Growth

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UPI) — The church is becoming increasingly concerned about educating the nation's children.

Church-related primary and secondary schools are growing along with public school systems, in number of both schools and pupils.

There was a time when the only schools in what now is the United States were church-operated institutions. When the nation was founded, education at all levels was carried on as a function of the church.

The movement for free education did not get under way until around 1825. But once it began, it grew rapidly. By the end of the century, public schools had forged ahead of church-related educational institutions.

Now there is a trend toward more schools sponsored by religious groups—although they can by no means be considered competing with public schools. There are an estimated 35 million pupils in public elementary and secondary schools in the United States, and well over 6 million in non-public schools.

Catholic Schools Grow

Most of the non-public schools are church connected—more than 90 per cent of the total non-public school enrollment being in Roman Catholic institutions of learning.

The National Catholic Welfare Conference reported recently a total of 5,138,051 pupils had registered in Catholic parochial schools this year. This accounted for more than 12 per cent of all elementary and high school pupils in the country.

It marked the first time Catholic school enrollment had passed 5 million. It also meant that total enrollment in Catholic schools had doubled since 1945.

There are other parochial schools, sponsored by other denominations, although not so extensive. Among them are schools connected with the American Lutheran, Evangelical Lutheran and Protestant Episcopal churches. These schools are operated by individual dioceses, local churches or parishes.

There also are parent-society church schools, each of which is controlled by a group of parents in a single Christian church or in several churches. This type of school appeared in the late 1800's, when the Christian Reformed Church entered the education field, according to the National Council of Churches.

Within the Jewish religion, there are both parochial and parent-society schools.

Some Sects Unrepresented

The National Council of Churches bureau of research and survey reports that while there has been a considerable increase in the number of church-controlled schools and in enrollment in recent years, the increase has not covered all denominations.

Only a relatively few of the 250 religious bodies in the United States have been found to be operating full-time week-day schools.

But those with schools are stepping up their activities. The largest churches involved, other than the Roman Catholic, are the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, the Protestant Episcopal Church and the various Jewish congregations. Other denominations involved are the Seventh-Day Adventists, Mennonite Church, Society of Friends, Christian Reformed and several Lutheran bodies.

In addition to parish schools, the Episcopalians maintain many private preparatory schools, some of which are expensive. Friends schools also are private.

Girl, 10, Offered New "Captain" By Cavalrymen

UMATILLA, Ore. (AP)—Cavalrymen in Germany have helped wipe away the sorrow of a crippled girl who lost her horse.

Nothing can ever replace her gentle Captain, Susie Hams said Tuesday. But, through her mother, Susie added she's delighted she will have another horse.

Since last spring, Captain and the 10-year-old girl had been constant companions.

Then, a few weeks ago, Captain was shot to death at close range with a shotgun in his pasture at the edge of this eastern Oregon town.

Mrs. Laverne Hams, Susie's mother, said it was a bitter blow to the child, who has had foot and hip deformities since infancy.

But Susie's spirits, she said, got a real lift when the family got a telegram from men of the 2nd Battalion of the 2nd Armored Cavalry Division in Germany.

"The officers and men have read of the tragic loss of your Susie's Captain. If acceptable, we desire to replace Captain with another horse. Please advise soonest," the telegram read.

This was one of many offers of aid from near and far. Mrs. Hams said she prayed to make the right decision. Then she wired the cavalrymen: "Your gift would be wonderful and gladly accepted. Thank you."

Mrs. Hams said Susie had gotten many letters, some containing money. The money, she said, will be turned over to the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children at Portland, where doctors plan to correct Susie's deformities in an operation next spring.

Church-Related Schools Show Amazing Growth

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UPI) — The church is becoming increasingly concerned about educating the nation's children.

Church-related primary and secondary schools are growing along with public school systems, in number of both schools and pupils.

There was a time when the only schools in what now is the United States were church-operated institutions. When the nation was founded, education at all levels was carried on as a function of the church.

The movement for free education did not get under way until around 1825. But once it began, it grew rapidly. By the end of the century, public schools had forged ahead of church-related educational institutions.

Now there is a trend toward more schools sponsored by religious groups—although they can by no means be considered competing with public schools. There are an estimated 35 million pupils in public elementary and secondary schools in the United States, and well over 6 million in non-public schools.

Catholic Schools Grow

Most of the non-public schools are church connected—more than 90 per cent of the total non-public school enrollment being in Roman Catholic institutions of learning.

The National Catholic Welfare Conference reported recently a total of 5,138,051 pupils had registered in Catholic parochial schools this year. This accounted for more than 12 per cent of all elementary and high school pupils in the country.

It marked the first time Catholic school enrollment had passed 5 million. It also meant that total enrollment in Catholic schools had doubled since 1945.

There are other parochial schools, sponsored by other denominations, although not so extensive. Among them are schools connected with the American Lutheran, Evangelical Lutheran and Protestant Episcopal churches. These schools are operated by individual dioceses, local churches or parishes.

There also are parent-society church schools, each of which is controlled by a group of parents in a single Christian church or in several churches. This type of school appeared in the late 1800's, when the Christian Reformed Church entered the education field, according to the National Council of Churches.

Within the Jewish religion, there are both parochial and parent-society schools.

Some Sects Unrepresented

The National Council of Churches bureau of research and survey reports that while there has been a considerable increase in the number of church-controlled schools and in enrollment in recent years, the increase has not covered all denominations.

Only a relatively few of the 250 religious bodies in the United States have been found to be operating full-time week-day schools.

But those with schools are stepping up their activities. The largest churches involved, other than the Roman Catholic, are the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, the Protestant Episcopal Church and the various Jewish congregations. Other denominations involved are the Seventh-Day Adventists, Mennonite Church, Society of Friends, Christian Reformed and several Lutheran bodies.

In addition to parish schools, the Episcopalians maintain many private preparatory schools, some of which are expensive. Friends schools also are private.

Girl, 10, Offered New "Captain" By Cavalrymen

UMATILLA, Ore. (AP)—Cavalrymen in Germany have helped wipe away the sorrow of a crippled girl who lost her horse.

Nothing can ever replace her gentle Captain, Susie Hams said Tuesday. But, through her mother, Susie added she's delighted she will have another horse.

Since last spring, Captain and the 10-year-old girl had been constant companions.

Then, a few weeks ago, Captain was shot to death at close range with a shotgun in his pasture at the edge of this eastern Oregon town.

Mrs. Laverne Hams, Susie's mother, said it was a bitter blow to the child, who has had foot and hip deformities since infancy.

But Susie's spirits, she said, got a real lift when the family got a telegram from men of the 2nd Battalion of the 2nd Armored Cavalry Division in Germany.

"The officers and men have read of the tragic loss of your Susie's Captain. If acceptable, we desire to replace Captain with another horse. Please advise soonest," the telegram read.

This was one of many offers of aid from near and far. Mrs. Hams said she prayed to make the right decision. Then she wired the cavalrymen: "Your gift would be wonderful and gladly accepted. Thank you."

Mrs. Hams said Susie had gotten many letters, some containing money. The money, she said, will be turned over to the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children at Portland, where doctors plan to correct Susie's deformities in an operation next spring.

William C. Walsh, who replaced Edmund S. Burke, retiring chairman of the board of Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, last June, is in charge of arrangements for the session.

The regents, headed by Chairman Charles P. McCormick, Baltimore, who is head of McCormick and Company, Inc., large spice firm, will meet in the board of directors room of the Liberty Trust Company.

Attending besides Walsh and Chairman McCormick will be B. Herbert Brown, Baltimore; Dr. T. B. Symons, College Park; C. Ewing Tuttle, Garrison; Thomas W. Pangborn, Hagerstown, and Harry H. Nuttle, Denton, all members of the board of regents, and Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, president and chief administrative officer of the university.

Also present will be Albin O. Kuhn, assistant to the president and Alvin E. Cormeny, assistant to the president in charge of endowment and development.

The agenda for the session includes a special report on enrollment trends, and a progress report on university expansion.

There will also be reports by these committees: agriculture, budget (on hearings of November 6), building (construction progress), endowment hospital and medical school (financial statement of the university as of September 30), athletics, and Maryland State College.

The matter of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission's request for a right of way for a sewer main will also be acted upon.

Action will be taken on resolutions reducing the special fees for full time under graduate students on the College Park campus, sale of bonds for the construction of a union-dormitory building in Baltimore, and authorization of the sale of stock received from an anonymous donor.

Prior to the regents' meeting will be a luncheon in their honor in the Fort Cumberland Hotel with the Times-News as hosts.

Besides the regents, those attending will be Burke, who served on the U. of Md. board from 1953 to this year; John J. McMullen, president of the Times and Alleganian Company; State Sen. Charles M See; Delegates Estel C. Kelley and William Walsh.

Fire Extinguished By LaVale Volunteers

A flue fire at the home of William Clark on Martz Lane in LaVale was extinguished by the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company yesterday.

Twelve men answered the call which was received at 6:50 a. m. They were at the scene until 7:45 a. m. Fire Chief James Loar said there was no damage.

$25,000 Loss Estimated In Tavern Blaze

A Hampshire County (W. Va.) business establishment was destroyed by fire early yesterday. Firemen said six occupants of the building barely escaped with their lives.

Destroyed was "Lena's Tavern," a combined tavern, restaurant, general store and service station on West Virginia Route 28 about a mile south of Springfield. Firemen estimated the loss at $25,000.

Harold Welker, chief of the Romney Volunteer Fire Company, said the blaze was discovered at about 1:30 a. m. by a passing truck driver. The driver told firemen he stopped his vehicle and attempted to arouse occupants on the second floor of the structure.

The business was owned and operated by Lena and Lester Crock, who lived in an upstairs apartment. His brother and sister-in-law and their two children were visiting the Crocks overnight, Chief Welker said.

After being aroused, the six people found their way of escape blocked by fire and smoke, but managed to make their way out of the blazing building without injury.

The six occupants escaped the fire with nothing but their night clothing, Chief Welker said. The entire building and its contents were destroyed. A pet dog of Mr. and Mrs. Crock died in the fire.

The Romney fire chief said the company arrived at the scene within 15 minutes after receiving the call, and were containing the flames until the water in the truck was depleted. The Fort Ashby Company arrived shortly after and also battled the blaze until its water was gone.

There is no source of supply at the scene, Chief Welker pointed out, and the two trucks were forced to drive some two miles to the South Branch of the Potomac River to refill their tanks. Despite their efforts, they were unable to save the building.

After the fire got a head start, the firemen confined their efforts to keeping the flames from two 1,000-gallon gasoline tanks in the front of the service station.

It is presumed the fire started from an overheated flue, Chief Welker explaining that he was informed by the trucker who discovered the fire that flames were shooting from the top of the building in the area of the flue. The loss was only partially covered by insurance, Chief Welker said he was informed.

The Crocks and their guests stayed overnight with neighbors, it was reported.

School Evacuated

KENSINGTON, Md. (AP) — A small blaze in a trash container caused the evacuation of about 1,100 pupils at Kensington Junior High School Wednesday.

The Montgomery County fire inspector said the fire apparently had been started by two pupils, a 12-year-old boy and a 13-year-old boy. They were turned over to juvenile authorities.

Four Yugoslavs Flee

INNSBRUCK, Austria (UPI)— Austrian police said Wednesday that four Yugoslavs have fled their homeland in railroad cars since last Sunday. Two were discovered in a railway car at Villach, and two others were found under a load of corn in another car at Sollbad Hall near here.

WARMER IN COOLER

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (UPI) — Walter Charles Mason, 56, sentenced to three months in the Ontario Reformatory on a morals conviction, complained that would mean he'd get out of jail in the middle of the winter.

"I wish you'd make it nine months," he told Magistrate H. R. Howitt, who obliged.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: I often read letters in your column from people who want to help others avoid a tragedy which they have suffered. This is the purpose of my letter.

Tell young girls who have babies out of wedlock if they can't or don't want to keep their child, to let an agency find suitable parents. Never give the child to relatives or friends.

I made the horrible mistake of giving my out-of-wedlock son to my middle-aged cousin and her husband. They couldn't have a family of their own and begged me to give them my baby. I agreed to leave town. They made all the arrangements, paid the bills and we made a pact not to tell anyone their baby was mine. They told people it came from "a home."

I've watched my son grow up into a selfish, worthless person right before my eyes. They gave him everything his heart desired and now he's a spoiled smart-aleck. It kills me when I run into him, which is often.

Please print this letter. If it saves just one person from making this same mistake it will be worth the heartache it took to put the facts on paper.

—CHILDLESS MOTHER

DEAR ANN: Why should a girl in high school have to stay home every night except Friday and Saturday? My parents both work and my sister and I have orders that when we come from school we are to clean the house, fix dinner and do our homework. We can't go out on dates.

I'm going steady with the nicest boy I've ever known. He's out of school and is getting fed up because I can't go out with him during the week.

—UNDERPRIVILEGED

DEAR UNDERPRIVILEGED: A high school girl SHOULD be at home during the week. Friday and Saturday night dates and an afternoon Sunday date is enough socializing for any high school girl.

It isn't possible to do justice to your school work if you date during the week. Teen-agers who date on school nights are always dead tired. They look it, and so do their grades.

And P.S. the way to keep a boy interested is to give him LESS of your company than he wants. Get smart.

DEAR ANN: My girl friend's father is 77 year of age. I'm 33, unmarried, and think he's a darling BUT—whenever I go to their home, he gets fresh and pinches me.

This man has been a widower for 13 years. I know he's lonesome, but I resent his actions all the same. He never gets out of line when his daughter is present, but the moment sh goes to the kitchen he's right there.

Am I being stuffy? I wouldn't dream of telling her why I'd rather have her come to my home than go to hers but I hate to go over there. Please give me your opinion. —B FUDDLED

DEAR B: Your person belongs to YOU, and you should not have to put up with pinches from anyone—even if he IS 77 years old.

Of course you shouldn't mention this to your friend. Go over there only when you cannot avoid it. When your friend goes into the kitchen, go with her. Outsmart the old pincher and don't be alone with him for even a minute.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Fire Extinguished By LaVale Volunteers

A flue fire at the home of William Clark on Martz Lane in LaVale was extinguished by the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company yesterday.

Twelve men answered the call which was received at 6:50 a. m. They were at the scene until 7:45 a. m. Fire Chief James Loar said there was no damage.

$25,000 Loss Estimated In Tavern Blaze

A Hampshire County (W. Va.) business establishment was destroyed by fire early yesterday. Firemen said six occupants of the building barely escaped with their lives.

Destroyed was "Lena's Tavern," a combined tavern, restaurant, general store and service station on West Virginia Route 28 about a mile south of Springfield. Firemen estimated the loss at $25,000.

Harold Welker, chief of the Romney Volunteer Fire Company, said the blaze was discovered at about 1:30 a. m. by a passing truck driver. The driver told firemen he stopped his vehicle and attempted to arouse occupants on the second floor of the structure.

The business was owned and operated by Lena and Lester Crock, who lived in an upstairs apartment. His brother and sister-in-law and their two children were visiting the Crocks overnight, Chief Welker said.

After being aroused, the six people found their way of escape blocked by fire and smoke, but managed to make their way out of the blazing building without injury.

The six occupants escaped the fire with nothing but their night clothing, Chief Welker said. The entire building and its contents were destroyed. A pet dog of Mr. and Mrs. Crock died in the fire.

The Romney fire chief said the company arrived at the scene within 15 minutes after receiving the call, and were containing the flames until the water in the truck was depleted. The Fort Ashby Company arrived shortly after and also battled the blaze until its water was gone.

There is no source of supply at the scene, Chief Welker pointed out, and the two trucks were forced to drive some two miles to the South Branch of the Potomac River to refill their tanks. Despite their efforts, they were unable to save the building.

After the fire got a head start, the firemen confined their efforts to keeping the flames from two 1,000-gallon gasoline tanks in the front of the service station.

It is presumed the fire started from an overheated flue, Chief Welker explaining that he was informed by the trucker who discovered the fire that flames were shooting from the top of the building in the area of the flue. The loss was only partially covered by insurance, Chief Welker said he was informed.

The Crocks and their guests stayed overnight with neighbors, it was reported.

School Evacuated

KENSINGTON, Md. (AP) — A small blaze in a trash container caused the evacuation of about 1,100 pupils at Kensington Junior High School Wednesday.

The Montgomery County fire inspector said the fire apparently had been started by two pupils, a 12-year-old boy and a 13-year-old boy. They were turned over to juvenile authorities.

Four Yugoslavs Flee

INNSBRUCK, Austria (UPI)— Austrian police said Wednesday that four Yugoslavs have fled their homeland in railroad cars since last Sunday. Two were discovered in a railway car at Villach, and two others were found under a load of corn in another car at Sollbad Hall near here.

WARMER IN COOLER

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (UPI) — Walter Charles Mason, 56, sentenced to three months in the Ontario Reformatory on a morals conviction, complained that would mean he'd get out of jail in the middle of the winter.

"I wish you'd make it nine months," he told Magistrate H. R. Howitt, who obliged.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: I often read letters in your column from people who want to help others avoid a tragedy which they have suffered. This is the purpose of my letter.

Tell young girls who have babies out of wedlock if they can't or don't want to keep their child, to let an agency find suitable parents. Never give the child to relatives or friends.

I made the horrible mistake of giving my out-of-wedlock son to my middle-aged cousin and her husband. They couldn't have a family of their own and begged me to give them my baby. I agreed to leave town. They made all the arrangements, paid the bills and we made a pact not to tell anyone their baby was mine. They told people it came from "a home."

I've watched my son grow up into a selfish, worthless person right before my eyes. They gave him everything his heart desired and now he's a spoiled smart-aleck. It kills me when I run into him, which is often.

Please print this letter. If it saves just one person from making this same mistake it will be worth the heartache it took to put the facts on paper.

—CHILDLESS MOTHER

DEAR ANN: Why should a girl in high school have to stay home every night except Friday and Saturday? My parents both work and my sister and I have orders that when we come from school we are to clean the house, fix dinner and do our homework. We can't go out on dates.

I'm going steady with the nicest boy I've ever known. He's out of school and is getting fed up because I can't go out with him during the week.

—UNDERPRIVILEGED

DEAR UNDERPRIVILEGED: A high school girl SHOULD be at home during the week. Friday and Saturday night dates and an afternoon Sunday date is enough socializing for any high school girl.

It isn't possible to do justice to your school work if you date during the week. Teen-agers who date on school nights are always dead tired. They look it, and so do their grades.

And P.S. the way to keep a boy interested is to give him LESS of your company than he wants. Get smart.

DEAR ANN: My girl friend's father is 77 year of age. I'm 33, unmarried, and think he's a darling BUT—whenever I go to their home, he gets fresh and pinches me.

This man has been a widower for 13 years. I know he's lonesome, but I resent his actions all the same. He never gets out of line when his daughter is present, but the moment sh goes to the kitchen he's right there.

Am I being stuffy? I wouldn't dream of telling her why I'd rather have her come to my home than go to hers but I hate to go over there. Please give me your opinion. —B FUDDLED

DEAR B: Your person belongs to YOU, and you should not have to put up with pinches from anyone—even if he IS 77 years old.

Of course you shouldn't mention this to your friend. Go over there only when you cannot avoid it. When your friend goes into the kitchen, go with her. Outsmart the old pincher and don't be alone with him for even a minute.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

X-15's Venture Into Space Will Climax Seven-Year, $133,000,000 Program

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — When the X-15 rocket plane makes America's first stab into space with a manned vehicle, it will represent an investment of $133,000,000 and seven years of research and development.

The X-15 is designed to carry a pilot to an altitude of more than 100 miles, the highest man has ever flown.

Its speed would reach between 4,000 and 4,500 miles per hour, the fastest man has ever traveled.

The flight of the stubby-winged plane will provide valuable data about flight problems beyond the earth's atmosphere and the effect of space travel on the human body. It will serve as an advance "scout" for the manned satellite which later will be fired into space in Project Mercury.

Began In 1952

Development of the X-15 began in 1952 when the National Aeronautics and Space Agency and the U. S. Air Force and Navy set about to create an infant "space ship" to explore the region just beyond our atmosphere.

Since then, more than 300 firms have been drawn into production of the X-15 and its complex battery of controls and instruments. North American Aviation Corp. became the prime contractor.

Reaction Motors of New Jersey supplied the power plant. General Electric built auxiliary power units. Garrett Corp. made the cooling and pressurization units. International Nickel Co. developed a new alloy called Inconel X to withstand the searing heat which the X-15 will experience.

The result is a futuristic-looking airplane 50 feet long with a 22-foot wingspan. The wings are swept back at a 25-degree angle, and the whole ship is painted black.

Launched From B-52

Some day soon a test pilot will fire hinself upward in the X-15 from a launching rack under a B-52 bomber. His journey, if successful, will tell scientists things about space travel they cannot learn through experiments on the ground.

(When that will be is not yet known. The X-15 program was set back on Nov. 5 when an explosion, apparently due to a fuel leak, damaged the ship during a test flight.)

"The X-15 marks the beginning of man's most advanced assault on space," says Harrison Storms, chief engineer of North American Aviation, which has built three of the craft. "In the X-15 we have all the elements and most of the problems of a true space vehicle."

The X-15 will consume its fuel 26 times as fast as a conventional jet plane. Eight tons of liquid oxygen and liquid ammonia — more than the weight of the plane itself — will be burned up in 90 seconds, pushing the ship forward with over 50,000 pounds of firey thrust.

To Record Reactions

More than 1,300 pounds of instruments will hem in the pilot in his pressurized cabin and pressurized suit. They will record and transmit not only the behavior of the plane but the reactions of his own body.

If the pilot has time to look out of the double glass panels at the side of his cockpit he will see most of the United States in a single glance and a vast stretch of the Pacific Ocean. His eyes will take in man's first sight of the stars unhampered by the layer of air enclosing the earth.

After its explosive burst of power the X-15 will "coast" through the remainder of its anticipated 20-minute flight. The pilot will set down the plane on the smooth surface of a dry lake bed using a "skid" landing device under the tail and regular wheels under the nose.

Who will that pilot be? Scott Crossfield, 38, test pilot for North American Aviation, has flown the X-15 in preliminary tests at lower altitudes and speeds and he hopes he will be chosen for the pioneering, full-power flight.

"I consider it as something I have to do — something I want to do," he says.

Will We Become An Urban Nation?

A farmer today and a city dweller tomorrow is more than an adage expressing the attraction of bright lights to a country boy. It is a prediction of the state of the nation by the year 2000, as seen by a population analyst for the Urban Land Institute in Washington.

Dr. Jerome Pickard, in a report issued by the institute, comments that by the turn of the century the United States will be divided into 10 "super-metropolitan areas," each covering parts of several states, and 285 smaller metropolitan areas spread from coast to coast.

All in all, says the economic geographer and population analyst, 85 per cent of the nation's citizens will live within the confines of urban borders, one-third in the 10 largest cities. Some big city denizens who have not traveled outside the smoke and congestion of their respective domains for years may have the impression that this is the way things are now.

The relative peace and neighborliness of the country and small town, it seems, are about to be invaded by city slickers gasping for air. City planners have already completed sketches of congested living of the future, including in them belts of sacrosanct land to break the monotony of solid concrete and asphalt.

Progress such as this is easier to contemplate if one has confidence in man's space efforts. Assuming other civilizations have not arrived there first, there should still be room on Mars, Saturn and Jupiter.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Summit Conferences

The idea of a Summit Conference is not new. Such meetings have often taken place in history. Probably the greatest of them in modern times was the Congress of Vienna held after the Napoleonic Wars. Present at this Congress were the Emperors of Austria and Russia, the Kings of Prussia, Bavaria, Wurttemberg, Denmark and many lesser princes. Also Metternich and Talleyrand were there and they were the principal diplomats of Europe, the men who really broke the back of Napoleon. Talleyrand was the most brilliant diplomat and politician of his day and it was largely due to his cunning that France survived.

The Europe of the years between 1815 and 1914 was made by the Treaty of Vienna. It was an era of peace with only sporadic, limited wars. Naturally the Great Powers were never in agreement and many side conferences had to be held as so much of the world had to be rearranged. Also a number of limited wars and revolutions occurred.

The emergence of Germany and its substitution for Austria, that is the substitution of Hohenzollern for Hapsburg, and the emergence of Japan as the principal country in East Asia and as an industrial and commercial competitor of both Great Britain and Germany brought, in 1914, the era of the Congress of Vienna to an end. This era witnessed no general war for nearly a century.

In recent years there have been several Summit Conferences. Teheran in December 1943, attended by Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin; Cairo in November 1943, attended by Roosevelt, Churchill and Chiang Kai-shek; Yalta in February 1945, attended by Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin; Potsdam in July 1945, attended by Truman, Churchill, then Attlee, and Stalin; Geneva in July 1955, attended by Eisenhower, Eden, Faure, Bulganin and Khrushchev. At Geneva, John Foster Dulles was also present and, in fact, represented the entire Western Alliance in the sense that he, rather than Eisenhower, was symbolic of the resistance to Soviet Russia.

There have been other top level conferences at which Roosevelt and Churchill met. There have been numerous foreign ministers' conferences which have been of equal importance with what are called Summit Conferences.

For instance, the London Economic Conference in 1933, at which this country was represented by Cordell Hull and Raymond Moley, might have saved the world from World War II had it not been scuttled by Franklin D. Roosevelt who had no understanding of the science of money and is reported to have flipped a coin to make a decision about the value of gold. The coin fell on the wrong side.

The forthcoming Summit Conference is to be attended by Eisenhower, Macmillan, Khrushchev, de Gaulle, with somebody from West and East Germany as witnesses. Nobody can be a prophet about such things. A thousand imponderables may make a failure of the conference just as the death of John Foster Dulles brought an unbelievable weakening of American policy.

However it would appear at the moment that the United States and Soviet Russia desiring the Summit Conference to have a measure of success, a way will be found to win over de Gaulle and Adenauer. The United States, as a practical measure, may agree to de Gaulle's program in Algeria and Soviet Russia may, as a practical measure, stop interfering in the affairs of West Germany.

As a matter of fact, Soviet Russia has a strong stake in the continued existence of West Germany. Although American-based companies may not freely trade with Soviet Russia, West German companies, even though they may be American-owned, do deal with Soviet Russia. Also, European companies which are licencees of American companies and either import parts from the United States for assemblage in Europe or manufacture goods in European countries under American licenses sell such goods to Iron Curtain countries, including Soviet Russia. The methods of accomplishing this are various.

Thus, Soviet Russia, by these channels, may obtain American goods despite an American embargo.

It is very doubtful whether Soviet Russia would, at this historic moment, want to risk antagonizing the Common Market countries which can provide manufactured goods, particularly metals of which Soviet Russia has a deficiency, and can purchase or barter minerals, and other raw materials from Soviet Russia. It is therefore unreasonable to expect that de Gaulle will be played down either by Eisenhower or Khrushchev, no matter what else happens at the next Summit Conference.

New Battle Over Food Additives To Be Fought In Next Congress

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — There's certain to be a battle of the housewives vs. the food and drug lobbyists in the next Congress.

Lobbyists for some of the most powerful food, farm, and cosmetic industries are already planning an astute battle to amend the Food and Drug Act. They want to protect the use of coal tars in lipsticks, cattle feeding additives, and weed-killers in connection with such things as cranberries. Specifically they have their guns trained on the "Delaney amendment" which forbids the use of any chemical if it induces cancer in animals.

This amendment was put across in the revised Food and Drug Act by Congressman James Delaney, Long Island Democrat, with the help of Congressmen Leo O'Brien and Isidore Dollinger, also New York Democrats. The revised act gave the Food and Drug Administration the right to bar certain foods, drugs, and chemicals immediately, instead of struggling through two years of laboratory experiments and court hearings as in the past. The new law puts the burden of proof on industry, not on the government, to show a drug or additive is healthy.

What has worried cancer experts is the alarming jump in cancer cases in the United States as compared with more backward countries and as compared with the United States of some years ago. The use of modern sprays, weed-killers, preservatives, and additives has been suspected.

After lengthy testimony from all sorts of doctors, the Congressmen found that, in preventing cancer, "the cumulative effects of additives in the diet of man or animals over their life span" must be considered. In other words, some additives may be quite safe alone, but produce cancer when combined with other additives. And it may take 20 or more years before the cumulative effects of these additives result in malignant growths, Congressional hearings showed.

Cancer Lives On

Some critics of the ban on weed-killer - contaminated cranberries point out that the cancer induced in rats does not mean that cranberries would induce cancer in man. On this point, the House Commerce Committee observed:

"To determine the ability of a new chemical to induce cancer in human beings would require a generation of observation. For this reason, animals that have shorter life spans are used . . . In human beings, chemical-induced cancers may not appear until 20, 30, or even more years after the first exposure.

"Carcinogens (cancer-inducing chemicals) have the unusual property of inducing irreversible changes in living cells," the Congressional committee found, "so that the cells slowly progress to cancer long after treatment with the chemical is stopped.

"For this reason," Congress found, "a carcinogen introduced into the nation's food supply tomorrow, could, even though subsequently reconsidered and withdrawn, induce cancer many years later in individuals who consumed it."

This is why the National Cancer Institute has been opposed to the use of the cattle and chicken feeding additive, stilbestrol, which actually is a female hormone injected into animals to neuterize their sex and fatten them quickly. There is no danger at first. But what worries the doctors is first the cumulative effect; second the possibility that farmers feed stilbestrol to chickens and turkeys too soon before marketing them.

The revised Food and Drug Act was passed by Congress in 1958 after prolonged hearings and hectic debate. There was a lot of industry opposition. There will be even more when Congress returns in January.

Peace For The Holy Land

A few years ago it would have been impossible even for the Prophet Abraham, from whom both the Jews and the Arabs sprang, to have got the Arab leaders to sit down with Israeli leaders to negotiate peace. The Arabs were too bitter.

In the last two years, however, there have been changes. President Nasser has become worried about the penetration of communism into Iraq. He has also become more skeptical about Russian "imperialism."

Meanwhile the determination of the Israeli army plus the dedication of the Israeli people have convinced even some of the bittered Arabs that Israel is here to stay.

The time may be exactly right therefore for President Eisenhower to break his 11-nation trip in the Near East to initiate talks between Arab and Israeli leaders.

An extra day or two in the Holy Land might bring to that strife-ridden region that great goal decreed when Christ was born—a goal toward which the world has been struggling for nearly 2,000 years—peace on earth, good will to men.

Historic Washington

This column has sometimes put the bee on O. Roy Chalk, the transit wizard who parlayed a friendship with Mamie Eisenhower's brother-in-law, Col. Gordon Moore, into a thriving airline and bus business. However, Mr. Chalk has a lot on his side when it comes to opposing plans for tearing up the historic streets and buildings of the nation's capital.

Commuters who have moved into suburban Virginia and Maryland are demanding the demolition of large hunks of historic Washington so they can drive in to work on new thruways, one passenger per car.

Mr. Chalk, who runs the local transit company, naturally is opposed. He proposes monorails and express buses instead. Anyone who has seen the monorail operate in Germany or in Disneyland can't help but agree with him. A monorail built to the Friendship Airport near Baltimore could have saved building the new Dulles Airport in Virginia.

Entirely aside from Mr. Chalk's transit system, however, the city of Washington ranks with Paris, Istanbul, Rio de Janeiro, and Peking as one of the most beautiful cities in the world. I have been to all of them. When the Founding Fathers planned the capital of the United States they planned well. Their planning should be preserved—regardless of those who have left the city to live in the suburbs.

Agony In The Red Chinese People's Paradise

By Joseph Alsop

MACAO

Gnawing hunger, made worse by chain gang work conditions, now prevails in every region of the Chinese countryside from which direct evidence can be obtained.

All the eyewitness testimony indicates that this situation has already endured for eight months to a year, depending on the region. It began shortly after the organization of all of Chinese agriculture in the vast super-collectives called people's communes, according to the eyewitnesses. In short, the main result of the communes has been a cruel drop in the already cruelly low level of life of the Chinese peasantry.

There is no sign, either, that the summer harvests have brought any improvement. On the contrary, the reports of those who have fled the communes within the last month are more distressing, if anything, than the reports of those who came out in late spring or during the summer. Thus the question arises, whether the Chinese Communist government does not intend to keep the peasants living and working on the same grim level for an indefinite period.

A totally different picture of the condition of the countryside has been painted by the Peking government. This picture has in turn been largely confirmed by the foreigners who have been given guided tours of China. Thus it is necessary to choose between this rosy picture painted by the Peking regime and confirmed by the guided tourists, and the dark and macabre picture painted by the wretched people who have actually gone through the wringer.

The choice has complex aspects, which must be discussed in a separate report. It is enough to say here that the writer believes the eyewitnesses, without much hesitation or qualification. For just this reason, an effort to collect a solid, representative body of eye-witness testimony was made here in Macao by a team composed of two highly qualified Chinese newspapermen, Richard Wu and Y. H. Chen of the "Hong Kong Standard" and this reporter.

Forty-five persons were interrogated who had fled to this city of refuge on dates ranging from the end of last May to the first week of this month. Nine turned out to have been townspeople, mainly from Canton; or fisherfolk, whose inherent mobility gave them certain privileges; or persons suffering from some permanent disability, such as blindness. The rest were all able-bodied farmers, whether men or women. Furthermore all of these came from the two rural classes, the hired farmworkers and the landless sharecroppers, who are supposed to have benefited most richly from the Communist regime.

The fisherfolk and former city dwellers had enjoyed strikingly better conditions on the mainland than the farmers in the communes. But even these people were vociferously glad to be in Macao, living and supporting families on incomes averaging not more than eleven American dollars a month. As for the farmer-escapees, their attitude was nicely summed up by a tough peasant who fled his commune by sampan on November 3. He is now getting his bed and board, without a penny of wages, by working for a Macao dealer in the great local delicacy, snakemeat.

"Why do you ask if I'm better off," he said, with a bitter guffaw. "In one day here, I get more oil and more meat than I got in three months by working sixteen hours a day, seven days a week for the commune."

It says much that this man and thousands of others like him have fled the communes at genuine risk of their lives. It says much, too, that the escapees who have not managed to get themselves to more prosperous Hong Kong, are still delighted to be living in hovels on the poorest coolie wages in this rather economically depressed little city. Analyzed scientifically, the evidence of these eyewitnesses gives the grisly reasons. The analysis necessarily comes in steps.

First, no group in China except perhaps the inmates of the slave labor camps is required to do heavier labor than the peasantry. Twelve hours of work a day, with no time off for men or women except in cases of disabling illness, is the alleged norm in all communes. In actuality, many communes evidently require sixteen hours of work a day for at least half of each month. Several cases were found of peasants being driven to work twenty-four hours a day for two to four days on end during the harvest and other work-heavy seasons.

Second, therefore, China's farm workers very clearly need a heavy laborer's minimum ration. The minimum grain ration for heavy laborers was set this year by the Peking government itself at 53.5 catties of rice or the equivalent per month. This amounts to 17.83 Chinese ounces, or about 1.9 American pounds per day.

Third, all communes from which evidence was available were falling far short of meeting the officially established minimum grain ration for heavy workers. There was, however, a wide variation from commune to commune. This resulted not only from variations in land fertility but also from variations in the ambitious-quotient of leading cadres. Conditions might be bad in a commune with good land, because the leading cadre had set a particularly high target for crop deliveries to the state.

Fourth, about one-quarter of the cases we interrogated came from communes where the grain ration for heavy workers was within two-thirds to three-quarters of the official minimum, in the range of eleven to thirteen Chinese ounces per day. No doubt because of the fearfully heavy work required of them, even these people, whose experience had been so much more fortunate than the rest, said they had been "starving" when they fled. All also said they had gained weight living as poor coolies in Macao.

What The Blood Cholesterol Count Means

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

What is your blood cholesterol? It is a good idea to have the level measured; if it is normal—forget about it. If the level is high, a retake is suggested because variations are common.

A wide discrepancy occurs when duplicate samples of blood are tested by two different laboratories, as their methods vary. So does the accuracy of the technicians. A reading of 300 is high by most standards but it is considered a high normal in some institutions because of the method used in making the test. Many persons must be on a low fat diet because their blood cholestoral is supposed to be high but actually is within normal limits.

Cholesterol is the most popular medical subject of the day. It is discussed in much the same way as were vitamins and wonder drugs earlier in the century. But most persons do not know what cholesterol is. This fatlike substance feels like soft wax and it has a yellowish creamy color. It is not a fat, however, but an alcohol of high molecular weight.

The chemical is an essential constituent of every living cell and it is a vital part of our life. Our body supply comes from two sources. Many foods are rich in cholesterol, including butter, cream, whole milk, egg yolk, fatty meats, and certain fish. The rest is manufactured by the body, especially in the liver, where it is excreted into the bile and absorbed by the intestines.

Individuals with hardening of the arteries resulting in heart attacks or strokes often have excess cholesterol in the blood. In addition it accumulates in the walls of the arteries, leading to thickening and hardening of the vessels. Diets high in cholesterol cause premature hardening of the arteries in animals. It is for these reasons that cholesterol is suspected as the villain but no one knows why the level increases in the blood in some persons but not in others.

Furthermore, lowering the blood level does not necessarily make the individual immune to arteriosclerosis. The blood cholesterol level can be lowered by adhering to a prudent diet, which is low in animal and hydrogenated fats and supplemented with vegetable and marine fats of a suitable substitute. One of the latest remedies (triparanol, or MER-29) is said to prevent cholesterol from being manufactured in the body.

SLIDING HERNIA

J. W. writes: How can a person take care of a sliding hiatus hernia?

REPLY

In this condition, the upper part of the stomach protrudes upward through the diaphragm. Surgery is advised when there is marked distress. But most victims get along by eating smaller meals, avoiding abdominal strain, and sleeping with head and chest at a slightly higher level than the lower abdomen and legs.

PRESSURE

REPLY

No. On the other hand, this operation is done as a rule on women who are at an age when the blood pressure usually goes up. Removal of the uterus is coincidental.

TOMORROW: Thyroid deficiency.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

A Brooklynite, far from his native habitat, was climbing a mountain when an eagle overhead suddenly paused dramatically in its flight, and plummeted to the ground.

"Pretty good shot, hey?" smirked the hunter.

"Oh, I don't know, mister," shrugged the Brooklynite. "I think you just wasted a bullet. That boid woulda been kilt by the fall alone."

Russian Economy

By Leslie Gould

For those who sit around in fear and tremble that Communist Russia is catching up with the U. S. economically, the testimony of Allen W. Dulles should be disillusioning as well as comforting.

Present Russian industrial production — Dulles believes — is no more than 40 per cent of present U. S. capacity.

By 1970—the year Nikita Khrushchev says Russia will pass the U. S.—Dulles figures Russian industrial output might get to 60 per cent of the U. S. total.

Dulles believes the Russians can continue their present 8 to 9 per cent a year expansion, which will bring them to 60 per cent of the then U. S. total.

The U. S. will hardly be standing still in this period. Currently the U. S. expansion — from a much greater production total—is at the rate of 4½ per cent. If this rate is exceeded in the next decade, Dulles doesn't believe the Russians will get to 60 per cent of the U. S. output.

Dulles should know what he is talking about—more so than anyone else—other than Khrushchev. He is the head of the C.I.A.—the U. S. Central Intelligence Agency.

Unlike information as to the United States' industrial progress, Russian data is secret. Only what the Russians want to tell gets out—and that is not necessarily truthful — lying is their business. So any published reports on Russian progress are guesses — some more intelligent than others—but Dulles' guesses should be closer to the right answers than any others.

The Communists are not about to inherit the world economically, Dulles says, but adds this word of caution:

"We should frankly face up to the very sobering implications of the Soviet economic program and the striking progress they have made."

Also, the progress Russia has made in the armament field must be faced realistically. The U. S. can not disarm, and probably the best way to bring about peace is for a stepped up defense program. The U. S. economy can afford to increase its defense spending 50 per cent. The Russians cannot. Such an expansion would wreck their new 7-year Plan.

Figures on the goals for 1965 announced by Khrushchev compared to present capacity of the U. S. support Dulles' contentions.

In motor cars Russia never will match the U. S.—not in our life time. Russia expects to turn out 114,000 motor cars this year. U. S. auto plants have a capacity for 8 million cars. This year's production will be around 5½ million. If it hadn't been for the steel strike, output would top 6 million cars.

Russia, which is producing 55 million tons of steel now has set the 1965 goal at 91 million tons. U. S. present capacity is 147½ million tons and by 1965 and 1970 it will be much more.

Russian electric power output is presently 233 billion kilowatt hours, with the 1965 goal 520 billion kwh. The U. S. today is producing 724 billion kwh.

The same on gas. Russia presently is producing 30 billion cubic meters, plans to have 150 billion cubic meters by 1965, but the U. S. currently has 305 billion cubic meters.

Russia is making strides in the development of oil fields, but present output is officially placed at 113 million tons with 1965 goal 230 to 240 million tons. Present U. S. production is 335½ million metric tons.

On coal, the Russians are outproducing the U. S.—but that doesn't mean much for this is a depressed industry. Russia now mining 500 million tons expects by 1965 to be producing 596 to 609 million metric tons. U. S. current production is 412 million tons.

By 1965 Russia hopes to catch up with U. S. shoe production, present output being 355 million pairs and the 1965 goal 515 million pairs. U. S. produces 505 million pairs.

In textiles, Russia is far behind —both now and in contemplated production. The Russian program is to increase present output of 6,380 million yards to 8,800 million yards by '65. The U. S. currently is producing 9 billion yards and has capacity for that much more output.

Russia needs every break to reach even the planned 1965 goals. Moscow also needs peace to achieve them and trade with the eastern worlds—much of that on credit.

Russia has one goal—eventual overthrow of the free world.

Will We Become An Urban Nation?

A farmer today and a city dweller tomorrow is more than an adage expressing the attraction of bright lights to a country boy. It is a prediction of the state of the nation by the year 2000, as seen by a population analyst for the Urban Land Institute in Washington.

Dr. Jerome Pickard, in a report issued by the institute, comments that by the turn of the century the United States will be divided into 10 "super-metropolitan areas," each covering parts of several states, and 285 smaller metropolitan areas spread from coast to coast.

All in all, says the economic geographer and population analyst, 85 per cent of the nation's citizens will live within the confines of urban borders, one-third in the 10 largest cities. Some big city denizens who have not traveled outside the smoke and congestion of their respective domains for years may have the impression that this is the way things are now.

The relative peace and neighborliness of the country and small town, it seems, are about to be invaded by city slickers gasping for air. City planners have already completed sketches of congested living of the future, including in them belts of sacrosanct land to break the monotony of solid concrete and asphalt.

Progress such as this is easier to contemplate if one has confidence in man's space efforts. Assuming other civilizations have not arrived there first, there should still be room on Mars, Saturn and Jupiter.

These Days

Summit Conferences

The idea of a Summit Conference is not new. Such meetings have often taken place in history. Probably the greatest of them in modern times was the Congress of Vienna held after the Napoleonic Wars. Present at this Congress were the Emperors of Austria and Russia, the Kings of Prussia, Bavaria, Wurttemberg, Denmark and many lesser princes. Also Metternich and Talleyrand were there and they were the principal diplomats of Europe, the men who really broke the back of Napoleon. Talleyrand was the most brilliant diplomat and politician of his day and it was largely due to his cunning that France survived.

The Europe of the years between 1815 and 1914 was made by the Treaty of Vienna. It was an era of peace with only sporadic, limited wars. Naturally the Great Powers were never in agreement and many side conferences had to be held as so much of the world had to be rearranged. Also a number of limited wars and revolutions occurred.

The emergence of Germany and its substitution for Austria, that is the substitution of Hohenzollern for Hapsburg, and the emergence of Japan as the principal country in East Asia and as an industrial and commercial competitor of both Great Britain and Germany brought, in 1914, the era of the Congress of Vienna to an end. This era witnessed no general war for nearly a century.

In recent years there have been several Summit Conferences. Teheran in December 1943, attended by Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin; Cairo in November 1943, attended by Roosevelt, Churchill and Chiang Kai-shek; Yalta in February 1945, attended by Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin; Potsdam in July 1945, attended by Truman, Churchill, then Attlee, and Stalin; Geneva in July 1955, attended by Eisenhower, Eden, Faure, Bulganin and Khrushchev. At Geneva, John Foster Dulles was also present and, in fact, represented the entire Western Alliance in the sense that he, rather than Eisenhower, was symbolic of the resistance to Soviet Russia.

There have been other top level conferences at which Roosevelt and Churchill met. There have been numerous foreign ministers' conferences which have been of equal importance with what are called Summit Conferences.

For instance, the London Economic Conference in 1933, at which this country was represented by Cordell Hull and Raymond Moley, might have saved the world from World War II had it not been scuttled by Franklin D. Roosevelt who had no understanding of the science of money and is reported to have flipped a coin to make a decision about the value of gold. The coin fell on the wrong side.

The forthcoming Summit Conference is to be attended by Eisenhower, Macmillan, Khrushchev, de Gaulle, with somebody from West and East Germany as witnesses. Nobody can be a prophet about such things. A thousand imponderables may make a failure of the conference just as the death of John Foster Dulles brought an unbelievable weakening of American policy.

However it would appear at the moment that the United States and Soviet Russia desiring the Summit Conference to have a measure of success, a way will be found to win over de Gaulle and Adenauer. The United States, as a practical measure, may agree to de Gaulle's program in Algeria and Soviet Russia may, as a practical measure, stop interfering in the affairs of West Germany.

As a matter of fact, Soviet Russia has a strong stake in the continued existence of West Germany. Although American-based companies may not freely trade with Soviet Russia, West German companies, even though they may be American-owned, do deal with Soviet Russia. Also, European companies which are licencees of American companies and either import parts from the United States for assemblage in Europe or manufacture goods in European countries under American licenses sell such goods to Iron Curtain countries, including Soviet Russia. The methods of accomplishing this are various.

Thus, Soviet Russia, by these channels, may obtain American goods despite an American embargo.

It is very doubtful whether Soviet Russia would, at this historic moment, want to risk antagonizing the Common Market countries which can provide manufactured goods, particularly metals of which Soviet Russia has a deficiency, and can purchase or barter minerals, and other raw materials from Soviet Russia. It is therefore unreasonable to expect that de Gaulle will be played down either by Eisenhower or Khrushchev, no matter what else happens at the next Summit Conference.

'I Say, Chaps – But You Have The Food'

New Battle Over Food Additives To Be Fought In Next Congress

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — There's certain to be a battle of the housewives vs. the food and drug lobbyists in the next Congress.

Lobbyists for some of the most powerful food, farm, and cosmetic industries are already planning an astute battle to amend the Food and Drug Act. They want to protect the use of coal tars in lipsticks, cattle feeding additives, and weed-killers in connection with such things as cranberries. Specifically they have their guns trained on the "Delaney amendment" which forbids the use of any chemical if it induces cancer in animals.

This amendment was put across in the revised Food and Drug Act by Congressman James Delaney, Long Island Democrat, with the help of Congressmen Leo O'Brien and Isidore Dollinger, also New York Democrats. The revised act gave the Food and Drug Administration the right to bar certain foods, drugs, and chemicals immediately, instead of struggling through two years of laboratory experiments and court hearings as in the past. The new law puts the burden of proof on industry, not on the government, to show a drug or additive is healthy.

What has worried cancer experts is the alarming jump in cancer cases in the United States as compared with more backward countries and as compared with the United States of some years ago. The use of modern sprays, weed-killers, preservatives, and additives has been suspected.

After lengthy testimony from all sorts of doctors, the Congressmen found that, in preventing cancer, "the cumulative effects of additives in the diet of man or animals over their life span" must be considered. In other words, some additives may be quite safe alone, but produce cancer when combined with other additives. And it may take 20 or more years before the cumulative effects of these additives result in malignant growths, Congressional hearings showed.

Cancer Lives On

Some critics of the ban on weed-killer - contaminated cranberries point out that the cancer induced in rats does not mean that cranberries would induce cancer in man. On this point, the House Commerce Committee observed:

"To determine the ability of a new chemical to induce cancer in human beings would require a generation of observation. For this reason, animals that have shorter life spans are used . . . In human beings, chemical-induced cancers may not appear until 20, 30, or even more years after the first exposure.

"Carcinogens (cancer-inducing chemicals) have the unusual property of inducing irreversible changes in living cells," the Congressional committee found, "so that the cells slowly progress to cancer long after treatment with the chemical is stopped.

"For this reason," Congress found, "a carcinogen introduced into the nation's food supply tomorrow, could, even though subsequently reconsidered and withdrawn, induce cancer many years later in individuals who consumed it."

This is why the National Cancer Institute has been opposed to the use of the cattle and chicken feeding additive, stilbestrol, which actually is a female hormone injected into animals to neuterize their sex and fatten them quickly. There is no danger at first. But what worries the doctors is first the cumulative effect; second the possibility that farmers feed stilbestrol to chickens and turkeys too soon before marketing them.

The revised Food and Drug Act was passed by Congress in 1958 after prolonged hearings and hectic debate. There was a lot of industry opposition. There will be even more when Congress returns in January.

Peace For The Holy Land

A few years ago it would have been impossible even for the Prophet Abraham, from whom both the Jews and the Arabs sprang, to have got the Arab leaders to sit down with Israeli leaders to negotiate peace. The Arabs were too bitter.

In the last two years, however, there have been changes. President Nasser has become worried about the penetration of communism into Iraq. He has also become more skeptical about Russian "imperialism."

Meanwhile the determination of the Israeli army plus the dedication of the Israeli people have convinced even some of the bittered Arabs that Israel is here to stay.

The time may be exactly right therefore for President Eisenhower to break his 11-nation trip in the Near East to initiate talks between Arab and Israeli leaders.

An extra day or two in the Holy Land might bring to that strife-ridden region that great goal decreed when Christ was born—a goal toward which the world has been struggling for nearly 2,000 years—peace on earth, good will to men.

Historic Washington

This column has sometimes put the bee on O. Roy Chalk, the transit wizard who parlayed a friendship with Mamie Eisenhower's brother-in-law, Col. Gordon Moore, into a thriving airline and bus business. However, Mr. Chalk has a lot on his side when it comes to opposing plans for tearing up the historic streets and buildings of the nation's capital.

Commuters who have moved into suburban Virginia and Maryland are demanding the demolition of large hunks of historic Washington so they can drive in to work on new thruways, one passenger per car.

Mr. Chalk, who runs the local transit company, naturally is opposed. He proposes monorails and express buses instead. Anyone who has seen the monorail operate in Germany or in Disneyland can't help but agree with him. A monorail built to the Friendship Airport near Baltimore could have saved building the new Dulles Airport in Virginia.

Entirely aside from Mr. Chalk's transit system, however, the city of Washington ranks with Paris, Istanbul, Rio de Janeiro, and Peking as one of the most beautiful cities in the world. I have been to all of them. When the Founding Fathers planned the capital of the United States they planned well. Their planning should be preserved—regardless of those who have left the city to live in the suburbs.

Agony In The Red Chinese People's Paradise

By Joseph Alsop

MACAO

Gnawing hunger, made worse by chain gang work conditions, now prevails in every region of the Chinese countryside from which direct evidence can be obtained.

All the eyewitness testimony indicates that this situation has already endured for eight months to a year, depending on the region. It began shortly after the organization of all of Chinese agriculture in the vast super-collectives called people's communes, according to the eyewitnesses. In short, the main result of the communes has been a cruel drop in the already cruelly low level of life of the Chinese peasantry.

There is no sign, either, that the summer harvests have brought any improvement. On the contrary, the reports of those who have fled the communes within the last month are more distressing, if anything, than the reports of those who came out in late spring or during the summer. Thus the question arises, whether the Chinese Communist government does not intend to keep the peasants living and working on the same grim level for an indefinite period.

A totally different picture of the condition of the countryside has been painted by the Peking government. This picture has in turn been largely confirmed by the foreigners who have been given guided tours of China. Thus it is necessary to choose between this rosy picture painted by the Peking regime and confirmed by the guided tourists, and the dark and macabre picture painted by the wretched people who have actually gone through the wringer.

The choice has complex aspects, which must be discussed in a separate report. It is enough to say here that the writer believes the eyewitnesses, without much hesitation or qualification. For just this reason, an effort to collect a solid, representative body of eye-witness testimony was made here in Macao by a team composed of two highly qualified Chinese newspapermen, Richard Wu and Y. H. Chen of the "Hong Kong Standard" and this reporter.

Forty-five persons were interrogated who had fled to this city of refuge on dates ranging from the end of last May to the first week of this month. Nine turned out to have been townspeople, mainly from Canton; or fisherfolk, whose inherent mobility gave them certain privileges; or persons suffering from some permanent disability, such as blindness. The rest were all able-bodied farmers, whether men or women. Furthermore all of these came from the two rural classes, the hired farmworkers and the landless sharecroppers, who are supposed to have benefited most richly from the Communist regime.

The fisherfolk and former city dwellers had enjoyed strikingly better conditions on the mainland than the farmers in the communes. But even these people were vociferously glad to be in Macao, living and supporting families on incomes averaging not more than eleven American dollars a month. As for the farmer-escapees, their attitude was nicely summed up by a tough peasant who fled his commune by sampan on November 3. He is now getting his bed and board, without a penny of wages, by working for a Macao dealer in the great local delicacy, snakemeat.

"Why do you ask if I'm better off," he said, with a bitter guffaw. "In one day here, I get more oil and more meat than I got in three months by working sixteen hours a day, seven days a week for the commune."

It says much that this man and thousands of others like him have fled the communes at genuine risk of their lives. It says much, too, that the escapees who have not managed to get themselves to more prosperous Hong Kong, are still delighted to be living in hovels on the poorest coolie wages in this rather economically depressed little city. Analyzed scientifically, the evidence of these eyewitnesses gives the grisly reasons. The analysis necessarily comes in steps.

First, no group in China except perhaps the inmates of the slave labor camps is required to do heavier labor than the peasantry. Twelve hours of work a day, with no time off for men or women except in cases of disabling illness, is the alleged norm in all communes. This amounts to 17.83 Chinese ounces, or about 1.9 American pounds per day.

Third, all communes from which evidence was available were falling far short of meeting the officially established minimum grain ration for heavy workers. There was, however, a wide variation from commune to commune. This resulted not only from variations in land fertility but also from variations in the ambitious-quotient of leading cadres. Fourth, about one-quarter of the cases we interrogated came from communes where the grain ration for heavy workers was within two-thirds to three-quarters of the official minimum, in the range of eleven to thirteen Chinese ounces per day. No doubt because of the fearfully heavy work required of them, even these people, whose experience had been so much more fortunate than the rest, said they had been "starving" when they fled. Russia is making strides in the development of oil fields, but present output is officially placed at 113 million tons with 1965 goal 230 to 240 million tons. Present U. S. production is 335½ million metric tons.

On coal, the Russians are outproducing the U. S.—but that doesn't mean much for this is a depressed industry. Russia now mining 500 million tons expects by 1965 to be producing 596 to 609 million metric tons. U. S. current production is 412 million tons.

By 1965 Russia hopes to catch up with U. S. shoe production, present output being 355 million pairs and the 1965 goal 515 million pairs. U. S. produces 505 million pairs.

In textiles, Russia is far behind —both now and in contemplated production. The Russian program is to increase present output of 6,380 million yards to 8,800 million yards by '65. The U. S. currently is producing 9 billion yards and has capacity for that much more output.

Russia needs every break to reach even the planned 1965 goals. Moscow also needs peace to achieve them and trade with the eastern worlds—much of that on credit.

Russia has one goal—eventual overthrow of the free world.

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

What is your blood cholesterol? It is a good idea to have the level measured; if it is normal—forget about it. If the level is high, a retake is suggested because variations are common.

A wide discrepancy occurs when duplicate samples of blood are tested by two different laboratories, as their methods vary. So does the accuracy of the technicians. A reading of 300 is high by most standards but it is considered a high normal in some institutions because of the method used in making the test. Many persons must be on a low fat diet because their blood cholestoral is supposed to be high but actually is within normal limits.

Cholesterol is the most popular medical subject of the day. It is discussed in much the same way as were vitamins and wonder drugs earlier in the century. But most persons do not know what cholesterol is. This fatlike substance feels like soft wax and it has a yellowish creamy color. It is not a fat, however, but an alcohol of high molecular weight.

The chemical is an essential constituent of every living cell and it is a vital part of our life. Our body supply comes from two sources. Many foods are rich in cholesterol, including butter, cream, whole milk, egg yolk, fatty meats, and certain fish. The rest is manufactured by the body, especially in the liver, where it is excreted into the bile and absorbed by the intestines.

Individuals with hardening of the arteries resulting in heart attacks or strokes often have excess cholesterol in the blood. In addition it accumulates in the walls of the arteries, leading to thickening and hardening of the vessels. Diets high in cholesterol cause premature hardening of the arteries in animals. It is for these reasons that cholesterol is suspected as the villain but no one knows why the level increases in the blood in some persons but not in others.

Furthermore, lowering the blood level does not necessarily make the individual immune to arteriosclerosis. The blood cholesterol level can be lowered by adhering to a prudent diet, which is low in animal and hydrogenated fats and supplemented with vegetable and marine fats of a suitable substitute. One of the latest remedies (triparanol, or MER-29) is said to prevent cholesterol from being manufactured in the body.

SLIDING HERNIA

J. W. writes: How can a person take care of a sliding hiatus hernia?

REPLY

In this condition, the upper part of the stomach protrudes upward through the diaphragm. Surgery is advised when there is marked distress. But most victims get along by eating smaller meals, avoiding abdominal strain, and sleeping with head and chest at a slightly higher level than the lower abdomen and legs.

PRESSURE

REPLY

No. On the other hand, this operation is done as a rule on women who are at an age when the blood pressure usually goes up. Removal of the uterus is coincidental.

TOMORROW: Thyroid deficiency.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

"Give me a well-rounded, melodic, rousing operetta any day," boomed the late Errol Flynn one evening — then added cautiously, "I refer, of course, to a telephone operetta."

Helpful hint to new parents by Dr. Ogden Nash:

"Many an infant that screams like a calliope
Could be soothed by a little attention to its diope."

A Brooklynite, far from his native habitat, was climbing a mountain when an eagle overhead suddenly paused dramatically in its flight, and plummeted to the ground.

The Brooklyn boy rushed to where the huge bird had fallen, and found a proud hunter already on the spot, inspecting his prize.

"Pretty good shot, hey?" smirked the hunter.

Boosters Club At Moorefield Elects Hott

High School Plans New Classrooms

MOOREFIELD — Warden Hott was elected president of the Moorefield High School Boosters Club Saturday night at the annual banquet at the Moose Home. Other officers named are Carlton Saville, vice president; Beatrice Keller, secretary; and Taylor Wilson, treasurer.

Ralph J. Bean, who was the first president of the club, presided as master of ceremonies. He enumerated the activities of the Boosters Club during the few years it has functioned as an organization. He said the club has contributed to the scholarship fund in the amount of $140, has given $50 towards a new car for Coach Jonathon Paugh, has contributed to the building of the bleachers, made donations to the band and donated to other activities.

He acknowledged the gifts from Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Allen, whose substantial donations to the scholarship has helped three students attend college who might not have been able to attend otherwise.

John Mathias, principal, spoke briefly on the history of the school. The first class was held in 1914 with the first graduating class in 1918 of one student, Charles Gilkeson. The first principal was P. R. Moore. Since that time MHS has graduated 1,167 students in the 46 years of its existence.

Mr. Mathias said the library now has over 3,500 volumes and a current student enrollment of 518 with 18 full-time teachers and four part-time teachers. The principal said the first bus was one from Old Fields to Moorefield, and that now 65 per cent of the enrollment comes to school by bus.

He said that this year three additional classrooms will be added, including a science hall, a larger math room and a foreign language department. The extra classrooms will be in the present Board of Education offices, which will be moved to the old Sanders School building.

Recognized at the banquet were John Burch, who has been on the Board of Education for 25 years; Robby Grafton, who responded for the Class of 1959, and Mrs. R. E. Fisher, class of 1919, the oldest graduate present. The retiring president, W. C. Harper was given a vote of thanks for his work during the past year. Coaches Jonathon Paugh and George Hott both made brief talks.

Toastmaster Bean announced that the Boosters will hold a Christmas dance at the school auditorium during the holidays.

Jackie Foster, 7, sits by a gaily-decorated Christmas tree in his Philadelphia home, holding a gift toy rifle as he celebrated Christmas more than a month early yesterday. The boy, whose left eye was removed because of cancer when he was only 13 months old, enters the hospital today to have his other eye removed, for the same reason. Jackie is the oldest of five children whose father, victim of an industrial accident, hasn't worked for months. "It's going to be a pretty bleak Christmas all around," says Jackie's father. Piedmont RC Chapter Is Presented Trophy

WESTERNPORT—A trophy for improvement in the Red Cross blood program was presented to Piedmont Chapter at a meeting of Red Cross workers held recently at the Westernport Library.

Arthur Koster, administrator of the blood program for the Johnstown area, presented the trophy to Mrs. Carlton Bell, who received it for the Piedmont Chapter. During the Bloodmobile visit to Piedmont, 130 pints of blood were collected, in comparison with 85 pints on the previous visit.

The trophy is now on exhibition in the window of Robert E. Kimmel's drug store, Ashfield Street, Piedmont. The chapter will retain the trophy until another unit in the Allegany-Mineral area earns it.

Also attending the meeting were Mrs. Jane Legge, executive secretary of the Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, and Mrs. Sarah Beneman, chairman of the blood program for the chapter.

How to improve the blood program and new methods of recruiting donors were discussed. The suggestion was made that a review meeting be held after each visit of the Bloodmobile.

Local workers attending the meeting included Mrs. Palmyra Cueva, Mrs. Owen Rhodes, Mrs. Bernadine Appel, Mrs. Carleton Bell, Mrs. Foster Daniels, Miss Bella Tonry, Rev. Levi Ziegler, Mrs. Kenneth Kooken, and Mrs. Robert Fazenbaker.

The next visit of the Bloodmobile in the Tri-Towns will be at the home of Victory Post 155, American Legion, here Monday, November 30.

Piedmont PTA Hears Report On W.Va. Meet

Five Resolutions Are Adopted

PIEDMONT — Mrs. Robert Kilroy, president of the Piedmont Parent-Teacher Association, reported on the state convention of the PTA held recently at Morgantown during the monthly meeting of the local group recently at the Piedmont High School.

The theme for the year will be "Look Homeward West Virginia." The explanation of it is to try to help the people in one's own community before assisting programs outside.

Five resolutions that were adopted by the state convention were, One—"That all school children receive all the required polio shots." Two—"Local PTA urged to establish public Libraries." Three—"Permit issuance of birth certificates that will omit the marital status of the parents of children born out of wedlock." Four — "Have centers which would channel juvenile offenders to foster homes or children's home." Fifth—"Prohibit the carrying of switch knives or any other dangerous weapons by students."

It was reported that four members of the local group attended the meeting of the Mineral County PTA held recently at Fountain.

Piedmont PTA will entertain the Mineral County PTA in April and will serve a dinner to the group.

Devotionals at the local meeting were led by Rebecca Harshbarger, Piedmont High School student. Mrs. Betty Dentemen, member of the faculty of Piedmont Elementary School, led in group singing.

Mrs. Kilroy, who presided, was appointed to represent the group to attend the meeting to form a Community Council on Tuesday, December 1 at 7:30 p.m. at Piedmont Presbyterian Church.

Preceding the meeting room visitation was held.

Small Farmer Needs Help, Says Speaker

Grant Countian Outlines Problems

MOOREFIELD — The Moorefield Lions Club heard Hogueland Taylor of Grant County speak on National Farm-City week Monday night at the meeting at the Hotel McNeill.

Mr. Taylor said that only nine per cent of the people in the United States are on farms, whereas 40 years ago, 30 per cent of the population was on farms.

Mr. Taylor said he is concerned with the little farmers and that no organization is doing anything about them. He said even the Farm Bureau is doing nothing for the plight of the small farmer, and pointed out that farming today is big business.

Taylor said that the Farm Bureau is the only farmers' organization in Hardy County and that there are only 145 members. He said there is a need for city dwellers and farmers to get together to discuss problems that affect both groups.

Bill Clark, Hardy County agent, in introducing Mr. Taylor, said one of the problems of today's county agent is inducing youngsters to consider farming as a career. Mr. Clark said that to buy a farm and stock it with livestock and machinery requires an investment of nearly $50,000 as a minimum, a goal out of the reach of most youngsters.

He also urged that the businessmen observe National Farm-City Week beginning Sunday, November 22. Don J. Baker is the Hardy County chairman of the Farm-City Week committee.

Richard Troughton, president of the civic group, named Wendel Hester as chairman of the annual Christmas basket program coordinated by the Lions Club for distribution among the needy.

Boosters Club At Moorefield Elects Hott

High School Plans New Classrooms

MOOREFIELD — Warden Hott was elected president of the Moorefield High School Boosters Club Saturday night at the annual banquet at the Moose Home. Other officers named are Carlton Saville, vice president; Beatrice Keller, secretary; and Taylor Wilson, treasurer.

Ralph J. Bean, who was the first president of the club, presided as master of ceremonies. He enumerated the activities of the Boosters Club during the few years it has functioned as an organization. He said the club has contributed to the scholarship fund in the amount of $140, has given $50 towards a new car for Coach Jonathon Paugh, has contributed to the building of the bleachers, made donations to the band and donated to other activities.

He acknowledged the gifts from Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Allen, whose substantial donations to the scholarship has helped three students attend college who might not have been able to attend otherwise.

John Mathias, principal, spoke briefly on the history of the school. The first class was held in 1914 with the first graduating class in 1918 of one student, Charles Gilkeson. The first principal was P. R. Moore. Since that time MHS has graduated 1,167 students in the 46 years of its existence.

Mr. Mathias said the library now has over 3,500 volumes and a current student enrollment of 518 with 18 full-time teachers and four part-time teachers. The principal said the first bus was one from Old Fields to Moorefield, and that now 65 per cent of the enrollment comes to school by bus.

He said that this year three additional classrooms will be added, including a science hall, a larger math room and a foreign language department. The extra classrooms will be in the present Board of Education offices, which will be moved to the old Sanders School building.

Recognized at the banquet were John Burch, who has been on the Board of Education for 25 years; Robby Grafton, who responded for the Class of 1959, and Mrs. R. E. Fisher, class of 1919, the oldest graduate present. The retiring president, W. C. Harper was given a vote of thanks for his work during the past year. Coaches Jonathon Paugh and George Hott both made brief talks.

Piedmont Asks Consent For Water Line

Would Run Under Railroad Tracks

PIEDMONT—The need for another water line for the "flat" in the town was pointed out by Mayor Rodney Baker at the regular meeting of the City Council Tuesday evening.

Application has been made to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company asking permission to run a six-inch water line under the railroad tracks in the vicinity of the Piedmont Grocery Company building.

A letter was read from the railroad company containing forms for further information before the permission is given. The town proposes to run a six-inch line from East Piedmont Hill to the flat section of the town.

The mayor also reported that there is only a one-inch water line in the east section of town known as "Rattail," which is not sufficient for its needs.

Another area, the east end of town known as Davisville, does not have city water but another problem was pointed out: if a water line is run to that point the area would also need sewerage.

Councilman Kingsley Skidmore called attention to streets that need resurfacing in the various sections of the town. If possible, some work should be done on those the town is able to finance after it has been ascertained what the cost would be for each project, he said.

Mayor Baker reported some of the requests made by the Police Department. They need a .22 rifle, and were ordered to get a price on a used one. Also, a camera is needed. The police were authorized to get a price on the type of camera needed.

Council ordered that prices be obtained for eight folding chairs for the use of visitors to the council meetings, and for town employes to use while eating their lunches in the city building.

The town would have the authority to make a part of court costs an additional fee for the arrest of any persons who violate the town ordinances, according to a letter received from Leonard A. Urban, supervisor of inspection and supervision of public offices of the State Tax Commission.

The opinion, in reply to an inquiry of Robert Mangold, police officer, stated the fee can be applied to the fine provided it is reasonable, and the town may dispose of the money in any way it sees fit.

Piedmont Asks Consent For Water Line

Would Run Under Railroad Tracks

PIEDMONT—The need for another water line for the "flat" in the town was pointed out by Mayor Rodney Baker at the regular meeting of the City Council Tuesday evening.

Application has been made to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company asking permission to run a six-inch water line under the railroad tracks in the vicinity of the Piedmont Grocery Company building.

A letter was read from the railroad company containing forms for further information before the permission is given. The town proposes to run a six-inch line from East Piedmont Hill to the flat section of the town.

The mayor also reported that there is only a one-inch water line in the east section of town known as "Rattail," which is not sufficient for its needs.

Another area, the east end of town known as Davisville, does not have city water but another problem was pointed out: if a water line is run to that point the area would also need sewerage.

Councilman Kingsley Skidmore called attention to streets that need resurfacing in the various sections of the town. If possible, some work should be done on those the town is able to finance after it has been ascertained what the cost would be for each project, he said.

Mayor Baker reported some of the requests made by the Police Department. They need a .22 rifle, and were ordered to get a price on a used one. Also, a camera is needed. The police were authorized to get a price on the type of camera needed.

Council ordered that prices be obtained for eight folding chairs for the use of visitors to the council meetings, and for town employes to use while eating their lunches in the city building.

The town would have the authority to make a part of court costs an additional fee for the arrest of any persons who violate the town ordinances, according to a letter received from Leonard A. Urban, supervisor of inspection and supervision of public offices of the State Tax Commission.

The opinion, in reply to an inquiry of Robert Mangold, police officer, stated the fee can be applied to the fine provided it is reasonable, and the town may dispose of the money in any way it sees fit.

Bob Elliott Named Manager Of Kansas City Athletics

Former Bucs Player Signs 1-Year Pact

Succeeds Craft; Plans To Select Coaching Staff

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The Kansas City Athletics Wednesday night named Bob Elliott as their new manager.

A's President Arnold Johnson said Elliott had been hired under a one-year contract. Kansas City had been without a manager since the end of the 1959 season when Harry Craft's contract was not renewed.

Announcement of the appointment was made by general manager Parke Carroll who had been in telephone contact with Johnson, now in Chicago.

The 43-year-old Elliott, who spent 16 years as a third baseman in the major leagues with the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Boston Braves, managed the Sacramento team in the Pacific Coast League last season.

Elliott, who was named the senior loop's most valuable player in 1947, had his best season in 1946 when he batted .317 and drove in 113 runs for the Braves. He had previously managed San Diego in the PCL.

Elliott, who arrived in Kansas City late Wednesday, said the first thing he will do is pick a coaching staff.

"Right now," Elliott said at a news conference, "I'm keeping coach Don Heffner, but I have to find a pitching coach."

"We are very pleased that we have been able to obtain Bob Elliott as manager of the Athletics," Johnson said in a statement issued from A's headquarters here.

"He had a good minor league record considering what he had to work with and he's a big fellow who will really push his team," Johnson added.

"Our first consideration in naming him was the fact that he was a good player himself. He was a good hitter and he should be able to help our hitters.

Elliott had already signed a new contract with Sacramento for next year but the California club said it would not let that stand in his way.

Sign For Bout

CLEVELAND (AP) — Heavyweights Sonny Liston of Philadelphia and Willi Besmanoff of Milwaukee have signed for a 10-round bout Dec. 9. The fight will be televised nationally (ABC) with the Cleveland area blacked out.

Folley Scores Over Johnson

PHOENIX, Ariz. (PI)—Heavyweight contender Zora Folley, lacking any tiger instinct, utilized his experience to score a 10-round unanimous decision over Alonzo Johnson Wednesday night in a nationally-televised bout.

Folley, second - ranked contender from Chandler, Ariz., weighed 197 ½ and Johnson, of Braddock, Pa., 189 ½.

Johnson was down twice in the fight. But both times referee Max Baer, who often was the busiest man in the ring breaking many clinches, ruled no knockdown. Johnson slipped to the canvas in the fifth round and again in the sixth round Folley fired a short right cross that appeared to have dropped Johnson, and even the mandatory eight count was tolled.

But Baer explained after the round it was not a knockdown and he was confused by the time keeper.

Baer voted 99-96 for Folley. Judges Joe Bozdick scored it 99-93 and Jacob Alpert 98-94. The nited Press International card favored Folley, 97-93.

The bout was staged before a tuxedo and evening-gowned crowd around ring side at Caravan Inn East Motel that paid $25 per person to benefit cystic fibrosis and another 250 in sports shirts who paid $5.50 for bleacher seats.

It was the 49th win against three losses and two draws for Folley and the fourth loss in 21 bouts for Johnson.

Brisk Trading Between Major Leagues Seen

Several Swaps Said Already Completed

NEW YORK (AP)—Trading will be brisk between Nov. 21 and Dec. 15, the unprecedented inter-league trading season for major league baseball.

Club owners and general managers — the fellows who do the bartering—have been suspiciously quiet, but don't let that fool you. Several trades already have been completed. Others are on the verge of completion.

The two known completed deals are:

1. Baltimore's Bob Nieman for St. Louis' Gene Green.

2. Boston's Dick Gernert for the Chicago Cubs' Dave Hillman and Rufe Marshall.

A big name-involving trade that has reached the serious discussion stage would send St. Louis' Joe Cunningham to the Chicago White Sox for southpaw Billy Pierce, third baseman Billy Goodman and outfielder Jim Rivera.

In their search for power, the White Sox have an alternate trade hanging fire. It involves the Cleveland Indians, and would bring Minnie Minoso in exchange for third baseman Bubba Phillips and catcher John Romano.

General Manager Parke Carroll of Kansas City said the A's are certain to swing at least two deals with National League clubs during the unrestricted trading period. He declined to identify any of the players involved but he admitted his club needs a pitcher, a catcher, and a third baseman.

Two long-time favorites — Gil McDougald and Frank Thomas—are being dangled in front of clubs in the rival leagues. General Manager Gabe Paul of Cincinnati has offered Thomas to Cleveland for Herb Score and to the Yankees for Norm Siebern and Don Larsen. He was rejected by both clubs.

Yankee Manager George Weiss is mulling over offers from three clubs in the National League—St. Louis, San Francisco and Milwaukee—for McDougald. He prefers a starting left-handed pitcher.

"I only got two arms, two legs and a little wee brain and I'm going to save it," Durelle said Wednesday.

Durelle, who flew home to play some hockey with the Moncton Hawks, said he would concentrate on his five-boat fishing fleet he built with his hard-earned ring profits with some hockey playing on the side.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

YOU COULDN'T HELP but like Ray Eliot, with all his pessimism, for the balding Illinois coach always had a friendly handshake, kidded with you and was easy to talk to.

He still looks like a football player (which he was) despite his 54 years of age, and his long service at Illinois made him dean of Big Ten coaches.

As a coach, he was a good one, not a great one, perhaps, for his record at Illinois today stands at 82 wins, 73 losses and 11 ties, not spectacular as coaching records go.

Ray's Illinois teams have been spectacular, however, and this Brighton, Mass., coaching product had a way of lifting them up for certain games.

Living up to the name tacked on the university, "The Fighting Illini," Ray could, and did, give fighting pep talks

AS A RESPECTED member of the coaching profession, Ray was one of the best. He is the past president of the American Coaches association, produced three Big Ten titles in his 18 years at Illinois and two Rose Bowl champions.

He worked hard behind the scenes on the rules and has played a big part in developing and keeping several of the rules we have in football today.

This is Ray Eliot's last season as a head football coach. He is retiring after the game with Northwestern November 21 and will become assistant athletic director.

We are proud to have met and known this man. We are sorry to see him leave the coaching ranks and we hope he stays on and on at Illinois, where he has become almost as much of an institution as Red Grange and Bob Zuppke.

Folley Scores Over Johnson

PHOENIX, Ariz. (PI)—Heavyweight contender Zora Folley, lacking any tiger instinct, utilized his experience to score a 10-round unanimous decision over Alonzo Johnson Wednesday night in a nationally-televised bout.

Folley, second - ranked contender from Chandler, Ariz., weighed 197 ½ and Johnson, of Braddock, Pa., 189 ½.

Johnson was down twice in the fight. But both times referee Max Baer, who often was the busiest man in the ring breaking many clinches, ruled no knockdown. Johnson slipped to the canvas in the fifth round and again in the sixth round Folley fired a short right cross that appeared to have dropped Johnson, and even the mandatory eight count was tolled.

But Baer explained after the round it was not a knockdown and he was confused by the time keeper.

Baer voted 99-96 for Folley. Judges Joe Bozdick scored it 99-93 and Jacob Alpert 98-94. The nited Press International card favored Folley, 97-93.

The bout was staged before a tuxedo and evening-gowned crowd around ring side at Caravan Inn East Motel that paid $25 per person to benefit cystic fibrosis and another 250 in sports shirts who paid $5.50 for bleacher seats.

It was the 49th win against three losses and two draws for Folley and the fourth loss in 21 bouts for Johnson.

Brisk Trading Between Major Leagues Seen

Several Swaps Said Already Completed

NEW YORK (AP)—Trading will be brisk between Nov. 21 and Dec. 15, the unprecedented interleague trading season for major league baseball.

Club owners and general managers — the fellows who do the bartering—have been suspiciously quiet, but don't let that fool you. Several trades already have been completed. Others are on the verge of completion.

The two known completed deals are:

1. Baltimore's Bob Nieman for St. Louis' Gene Green.

2. Boston's Dick Gernert for the Chicago Cubs' Dave Hillman and Rufe Marshall.

A big name-involving trade that has reached the serious discussion stage would send St. Louis' Joe Cunningham to the Chicago White Sox for southpaw Billy Pierce, third baseman Billy Goodman and outfielder Jim Rivera.

In their search for power, the White Sox have an alternate trade hanging fire. It involves the Cleveland Indians, and would bring Minnie Minoso in exchange for third baseman Bubba Phillips and catcher John Romano.

General Manager Parke Carroll of Kansas City said the A's are certain to swing at least two deals with National League clubs during the unrestricted trading period. He declined to identify any of the players involved but he admitted his club needs a pitcher, a catcher, and a third baseman.

Two long-time favorites — Gil McDougald and Frank Thomas—are being dangled in front of clubs in the rival leagues. General Manager Gabe Paul of Cincinnati has offered Thomas to Cleveland for Herb Score and to the Yankees for Norm Siebern and Don Larsen. He was rejected by both clubs.

Yankee Manager George Weiss is mulling over offers from three clubs in the National League—St. Louis, San Francisco and Milwaukee—for McDougald. He prefers a starting left-handed pitcher.

"I only got two arms, two legs and a little wee brain and I'm going to save it," Durelle said Wednesday.

Durelle, who flew home to play some hockey with the Moncton Hawks, said he would concentrate on his five-boat fishing fleet he built with his hard-earned ring profits with some hockey playing on the side.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

YOU COULDN'T HELP but like Ray Eliot, with all his pessimism, for the balding Illinois coach always had a friendly handshake, kidded with you and was easy to talk to.

He still looks like a football player (which he was) despite his 54 years of age, and his long service at Illinois made him dean of Big Ten coaches.

As a coach, he was a good one, not a great one, perhaps, for his record at Illinois today stands at 82 wins, 73 losses and 11 ties, not spectacular as coaching records go.

Ray's Illinois teams have been spectacular, however, and this Brighton, Mass., coaching product had a way of lifting them up for certain games.

Living up to the name tacked on the university, "The Fighting Illini," Ray could, and did, give fighting pep talks about as often as he would wow the customers with his quips and jokes at dinner meetings.

AS A RESPECTED member of the coaching profession, Ray was one of the best. He is the past president of the American Coaches association, produced three Big Ten titles in his 18 years at Illinois and two Rose Bowl champions.

He worked hard behind the scenes on the rules and has played a big part in developing and keeping several of the rules we have in football today.

This is Ray Eliot's last season as a head football coach. He is retiring after the game with Northwestern November 21 and will become assistant athletic director.

We are proud to have met and known this man. We are sorry to see him leave the coaching ranks and we hope he stays on and on at Illinois, where he has become almost as much of an institution as Red Grange and Bob Zuppke.

Pimlico Officials Smug In New Winter Quarters

Glass Enclosure, TV Are Features

By GOERGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — "We are pleasant under glass," a smug Charlie Johnson, publicity director for Pimlico, cracked Wednesday.

The same thing happened yesterday at Churchill Downs in Kentucky.

But it was Aqueduct's misfortune that prompted the feeling of superiority at Pimlico. While the grandiose track at New York was being ballyhooed as the biggest and best, Pimlico was doing some improving of its own which it felt was even a step ahead of Aqueduct.

It was to "make our main stands impervious to any kind of weather," Louis Pondfield, executive director, boasted. "Pimlico is prepared for freezing weather and we do not anticipate a cancellation no matter how cold it gets."

The entire front of the combined clubhouse-grandstand — 360 feet — was enclosed in glass. It took 180 of 6 by 10 foot panes, or 16,200 square feet, to cover the area larger than a football field.

Infra red heat from 95 machines were installed. Their ceramic centers reach 1,700 degrees at full blast and can throw out 3 million British thermal units of heat energy.

The heat system is thermostatically controlled to adjust to outside temperatures. On warm days, an electrical remote control opens the upper sections of the windows.

Not only may fans at Pimlico sit and watch the races through glass in living room conditions, but they can act just like they were at home. There are 25 closed circuit television screens scattered around the building on which every race is carried.

The temperature in Baltimore this morning was 20 degrees, only the second time in nearly 90 years it was that low on this date.

Pimlico's improvements cost three-quarters of a million dollars compared to 33 million for Aqueduct, which has no winterized features.

The Pimlico meeting ends Dec. 15.

Georgia Back Wins Honors

Tarkenton Named Back Of Week

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—Poised is the best way to describe Francis Tarkenton, Georgia's magic-making quarterback.

He proved it again Saturday when he threw a touchdown pass in the final 30 seconds to upset Auburn—using a play he made up in the huddle.

The 13-yard toss to end Bill Herron brought Georgia the 1959 Southeastern Conference football championship and won for Tarkenton national Back of the Week Honors from The Associated Press.

"That's a mighty fine honor—and quite unexpected," said the 19-year-old son of an Athens minister.

"Francis is the most poised quarterback I've ever seen in college football," said Coach Wally Butts.

The decisive pass play against Auburn came on fourth down at the 13 with the clock ticking away the final minute.

"We were on the right side of the field so our left end would have more room to maneuver," the 6-1, 185-pound Tarkenton explained.

"I told Herron—the left end—to block in on the tackle, figuring that might draw the Auburn sideback in. Then Herron was to get open and head for the corner. (Halfback Bobby) Walden was to go down on the right side as a decoy: I rolled out to the right, thinking the defense might roll with me and it did. I saw Herron running for the corner. I didn't even think what would happen if I threw behind him or high."

The pass was perfect.

Other Back of the Week nominees were:

Penn State's Richie Lucas, Charlie Flowers and Jake Gibbs of Mississippi, Dean Look of Michigan State, Arkansas' Lance Alworth, Skip Face of Stanford, Willie West of Oregon, Don Perkins of New Mexico, Maryland's Dale Betty, Rich Mayo of the Air Force, Joe Caldwell of Army and Illinois' Bill Brown.

Delaware Holds Lambert Lead

NEW YORK (UPI)—Delaware, toppled from the unbeaten ranks last Saturday, held its No. 1 rating Wednesday in the balloting for the Lambert Cup, emblematic of small college football supremacy in the East.

Washington's Bob Allison Earns AL 'Rookie' Award

2nd Honor In Row For Senators

BOSTON (AP)—Bob Allison, the Washington Senators' big, muscular center fielder, Wednesday was named the American League rookie of the year for 1959.

It was the second year in a row that Washington's center fielder had been chosen for the honor by the Baseball Writers Assn. of America, and Allison forced the 1958 winner, Albie Pearson, out of his position.

Pearson was traded to Baltimore this season after the 6-foot-3 210-pound Allison had secured the center field job.

Allison, a former fullback for the University of Kansas, easily outdistanced Cleveland's Jim Perry and Russ Snyder of Kansas City in the balloting by a 24-man committee of the baseball writers. He polled 18 votes, Perry had 5 and Snyder 1.

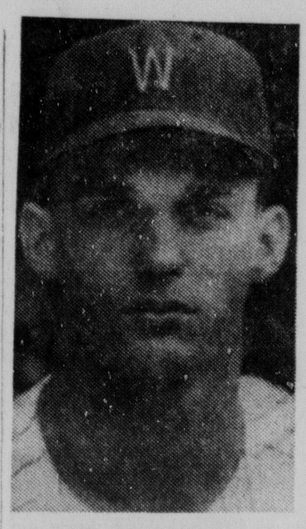
Allison, 25, is now playing in the Cuban Winter League.

"It's terrific," he said in Havana. "It's something I always dreamed of if I got a chance in the majors. I'm really thrilled."

Allison had a .261 batting average in 150 games this season and blasted 30 home runs. He drove in 85 runs, had 18 doubles and led the American League in triples with 9.

Allison, acclaimed by Washington Trainer George Lentz as the most perfect physical speciman he has seen in 30 years of training athletes, was signed off the KU campus in 1955 for $4,000.

He played 11 games with the Senators in 1958, with only 35 times at bat, making him eligible for this year's award.



ROOKIE OF YEAR — The American League's rookie of the year for 1959 is Bob Allison, Washington Senators' centerfielder. He has been chosen for the honor by the Baseball Writers Association of America. Allison received 18 of the 24 votes cast.

Aussies Lead Canada Cup

Thomson And Nagle Have 7-Stroke Edge

MELBOURNE (AP) — Australia's Peter Thomson and Kel Nagle teed off Thursday for the second round of the Canada Cup matches with the biggest lead any country ever enjoyed at any stage of play since this annual World Series of pro golf was inaugurated seven years ago.

Thomson, four - time British Open winner, shot a gaudy 3-under-par 67 in Wednesday's opening round and his partner had a smooth 70 for a first-round 137 total, seven stroke better than South Africa, Canada and Wales, tied for second at 144.

Thomson was the only man in the international field of 60 to better the 34-36—70 par on the 6,853-yard Royal Melbourne course.

The U.S. entry of Sam Snead and Cary Middlecoff salvaged fifth place with 145, thanks to Snead's blazing finish and Middlecoff's steady 72 round. Snead had an eagle on the 17th after putting a No. 3 wood 12 feet from the pin, and sank an 18-foot putt for a birdie on the final green for a 73.

Two more rounds will be played after Thursday's round, after which the combined totals of the two-man teams will be added to determine the successor to the Irish champions of 1958. The United States twosome plays with Ireland Thursday.

Pimlico Officials Smug In New Winter Quarters

By GOERGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — "We are pleasant under glass," a smug Charlie Johnson, publicity director for Pimlico, cracked Wednesday.

The same thing happened yesterday at Churchill Downs in Kentucky.

But it was Aqueduct's misfortune that prompted the feeling of superiority at Pimlico. While the grandiose track at New York was being ballyhooed as the biggest and best, Pimlico was doing some improving of its own which it felt was even a step ahead of Aqueduct.

It was to "make our main stands impervious to any kind of weather," Louis Pondfield, executive director, boasted. "Pimlico is prepared for freezing weather and we do not anticipate a cancellation no matter how cold it gets."

The entire front of the combined clubhouse-grandstand — 360 feet — was enclosed in glass. It took 180 of 6 by 10 foot panes, or 16,200 square feet, to cover the area larger than a football field.

Infra red heat from 95 machines were installed. Their ceramic centers reach 1,700 degrees at full blast and can throw out 3 million British thermal units of heat energy.

The heat system is thermostatically controlled to adjust to outside temperatures. On warm days, an electrical remote control opens the upper sections of the windows.

Not only may fans at Pimlico sit and watch the races through glass in living room conditions, but they can act just like they were at home. There are 25 closed circuit television screens scattered around the building on which every race is carried.

The temperature in Baltimore this morning was 20 degrees, only the second time in nearly 90 years it was that low on this date.

Pimlico's improvements cost three-quarters of a million dollars compared to 33 million for Aqueduct, which has no winterized features.

The Pimlico meeting ends Dec. 15.

Georgia Back Wins Honors

Tarkenton Named Back Of Week

He proved it again Saturday when he threw a touchdown pass in the final 30 seconds to upset Auburn—using a play he made up in the huddle.

The 13-yard toss to end Bill Herron brought Georgia the 1959 Southeastern Conference football championship and won for Tarkenton national Back of the Week Honors from The Associated Press.

"That's a mighty fine honor—and quite unexpected," said the 19-year-old son of an Athens minister.

"Francis is the most poised quarterback I've ever seen in college football," said Coach Wally Butts.

The decisive pass play against Auburn came on fourth down at the 13 with the clock ticking away the final minute.

"We were on the right side of the field so our left end would have more room to maneuver," the 6-1, 185-pound Tarkenton explained.

"I told Herron—the left end—to block in on the tackle, figuring that might draw the Auburn sideback in. Then Herron was to get open and head for the corner. (Halfback Bobby) Walden was to go down on the right side as a decoy. I rolled out to the right, thinking the defense might roll with me and it did. I saw Herron running for the corner. I didn't even think what would happen if I threw behind him or high."

The pass was perfect.

Other Back of the Week nominees were:

Penn State's Richie Lucas, Charlie Flowers and Jake Gibbs of Mississippi, Dean Look of Michigan State, Arkansas' Lance Alworth, Skip Face of Stanford, Willie West of Oregon, Don Perkins of New Mexico, Maryland's Dale Betty, Rich Mayo of the Air Force, Joe Caldwell of Army and Illinois' Bill Brown.

Washington's Bob Allison Earns AL 'Rookie' Award

2nd Honor In Row For Senators

BOSTON (AP)—Bob Allison, the Washington Senators' big, muscular center fielder, Wednesday was named the American League rookie of the year for 1959.

It was the second year in a row that Washington's center fielder had been chosen for the honor by the Baseball Writers Assn. of America, and Allison forced the 1958 winner, Albie Pearson, out of his position.

Pearson was traded to Baltimore this season after the 6-foot-3 210-pound Allison had secured the center field job.

Allison, a former fullback for the University of Kansas, easily outdistanced Cleveland's Jim Perry and Russ Snyder of Kansas City in the balloting by a 24-man committee of the baseball writers. He polled 18 votes, Perry had 5 and Snyder 1.

Allison, 25, is now playing in the Cuban Winter League.

"It's terrific," he said in Havana. "It's something I always dreamed of if I got a chance in the majors. I'm really thrilled."

Allison had a .261 batting average in 150 games this season and blasted 30 home runs. He drove in 85 runs, had 18 doubles and led the American League in triples with 9.

Allison, acclaimed by Washington Trainer George Lentz as the most perfect physical speciman he has seen in 30 years of training athletes, was signed off the KU campus in 1955 for $4,000.

He played 11 games with the Senators in 1958, with only 35 times at bat, making him eligible for this year's award.

Highlanders Host To Terra Alta

OAKLAND — Southern High School began preparing for the coming basketball season as thirty-two boys reported to practice on Monday evening.

The Highlanders, who won 12 and lost eight games (including two games with the alumni) during regular season play last year, will have four regulars returning to the line-up. These four boys, Terry Colaw, Jerry Wine, Ron Colaw, and Dick Stuck are each two or three year lettermen in basketball. Other familiar 'aces to the hardwood court at Southern include Bill Stemple, Wally Bolyard, Bill Duling and Don James who each won letters last year.

The varsity which is being coached by Carl Schoonover and Whitey Adolfson will play a 19 game schedule beginning December 8, when they open at home against Terra Alta.

Coach Schoonover indicated that the varsity squad would be cut to twelve boys within the next 10 days. Other boys who will be trying out for the varsity or the junior varsity include Carroll Miller, Carl DeWitt, Tom Bergner, Sonny Riggs, Steve Malone, Brent Propst, Bill Butler, Jerry DiSimone, Willard Carr, Harold White, Jack Broadwater, Wolford Ferando and Gary Stine. Most of these boys saw action last year as members of the Junior Varsity.

Coaching the Junior Varsity will be Tommie Kuhn.

Coming up from the junior high team of last year which won seven games and lost six will be Porter Welch, John Beckman, John Prince, Andy Lewis, Lindsey Gonder, Frank Vetter, Ronald Wotring, Wayne Soult, Clark Sharpless and Dick Dickson. Joe Morris, a new student has also reported for basketball.

Aussies Lead Canada Cup

Thomson And Nagle Have 7-Stroke Edge

MELBOURNE (AP) — Australia's Peter Thomson and Kel Nagle teed off Thursday for the second round of the Canada Cup matches with the biggest lead any country ever enjoyed at any stage of play since this annual World Series of pro golf was inaugurated seven years ago.

Thomson, four - time British Open winner, shot a gaudy 3-under-par 67 in Wednesday's opening round and his partner had a smooth 70 for a first-round 137 total, seven stroke better than South Africa, Canada and Wales, tied for second at 144.

Thomson was the only man in the international field of 60 to better the 34-36—70 par on the 6,853-yard Royal Melbourne course.

The U.S. entry of Sam Snead and Cary Middlecoff salvaged fifth place with 145, thanks to Snead's blazing finish and Middlecoff's steady 72 round. Snead had an eagle on the 17th after putting a No. 3 wood 12 feet from the pin, and sank an 18-foot putt for a birdie on the final green for a 73.

Two more rounds will be played after Thursday's round, after which the combined totals of the two-man teams will be added to determine the successor to the Irish champions of 1958. The United States twosome plays with Ireland Thursday.

Weekend For Classics

"A Doll's House" was written by Henrik Ibsen in 1879 and it set the theater world on fire, inaugurated the modern theater, and practically invented the Modern Woman. Since then a lot of water has passed under the bridge; the Modern Woman needs, not so much emancipation as reacquaintance with the kitchen and modern drama has passed many a milestone.

Or, to put it another way, "A Doll's House" creaked badly at the hinges on Hallmark the other night even with Julie Harris bringing a little warmth to the frigid Norwegian's meticulously formal entrances and exits. Hallmark is getting to be the great stock company of television bringing the classics to a large and devoted audience and for this alone it deserves a big kiss from us all.

I must confess, though, I found "A Doll's House" trying. The entrances of people and of letters and of the accidents of time seemed awfully contrived and stagey. As the wife who led a doll's life until the world came crashing down on her head, Julie Harris gave her usual glowing performance — but the others I thought were playing well within themselves. The others included some of my favorite performers —Christopher Plummer in that perfectly awful role of the husband; Eileen Heckart as the friend; Hume Cronyn, who has monopolized all the really unpleasant roles this fall, as the dismissed bank employe; and Jason Robards Jr. as the embittered doctor.

George Schaefer's direction and production added great charm and fluency to the tale of the little wife who wants to be treated as a woman rather than a plaything but, when you come right down to it, it was the mighty Norwegian who must bear the brunt of the blame for those letters that arrive in the nick of time, those long-winded explanations of action that took place years earlier, those icy motivations. It's only his heroine, trudging out into the snow to find her own life, who seems real today. Women have been doing that—both off and on stage ever since.

Altogether it was a great weekend for the classics. On Friday Art Carney played the role of narrator and stage manager on Thornton Wilder's great play "Out Town." I've seen "Our Town" any number of times and I don't know that I've ever seen it presented much more faithfully than this.

There was no scenery and no props. This puts the emphasis exactly where it belongs—on the people, on the situations — and they, of course, are basic. The arrival of dawn in the sky. The arrival of the milk man. The arrival of a baby. What a towering simplicity of mind was Thornton Wilder's to put all these essentials in the first five minutes of a play!

That, of course, is what "Our Town" is all about. People are born. They get married. They have children. They die. And, in between, are the sunsets, the smell of coffeee in the morning, the sounds of Christmas, the small noises and the smells of life—and Wilder's message is, for God's sake, appreciate it all while you have it.

There was always something missing in this play to me—something a little abrupt in the movement from a wedding to the cemetery. But with the clean-limbed and very stark direction of Mr. Quintero—this is his first network TV show—Mr. Wilder's great idea comes through naked and unadorned. "Live people don't understand," cries his dead heroine to the other dead in the cemetery. "No, not very much," says her dead mother-in-law. And later: "All this was going on and I didn't notice," she says later, as she relives a little bit of a single day.

It's a great message—to live life every minute, to count your blessings every one, to love and be loved—probably the greatest message ever contained by any play in our time or maybe any other time. Carney, who is getting to be the most versatile all around talent we have, put a little New England twang in his voice, a wonderful gleam of humanity in his eye, and was thoroughly enchanting, mixing an imaginary soda while discoursing on how delightful life was in our town before the automobile arrived.

Weekend For Classics

"A Doll's House" was written by Henrik Ibsen in 1879 and it set the theater world on fire, inaugurated the modern theater, and practically invented the Modern Woman. Since then a lot of water has passed under the bridge; the Modern Woman needs, not so much emancipation as reacquaintance with the kitchen and modern drama has passed many a milestone.

Or, to put it another way, "A Doll's House" creaked badly at the hinges on Hallmark the other night even with Julie Harris bringing a little warmth to the frigid Norwegian's meticulously formal entrances and exits. Hallmark is getting to be the great stock company of television bringing the classics to a large and devoted audience and for this alone it deserves a big kiss from us all.

I must confess, though, I found "A Doll's House" trying. The entrances of people and of letters and of the accidents of time seemed awfully contrived and stagey. As the wife who led a doll's life until the world came crashing down on her head, Julie Harris gave her usual glowing performance — but the others I thought were playing well within themselves. The others included some of my favorite performers —Christopher Plummer in that perfectly awful role of the husband; Eileen Heckart as the friend; Hume Cronyn, who has monopolized all the really unpleasant roles this fall, as the dismissed bank employe; and Jason Robards Jr. as the embittered doctor.

George Schaefer's direction and production added great charm and fluency to the tale of the little wife who wants to be treated as a woman rather than a plaything but, when you come right down to it, it was the mighty Norwegian who must bear the brunt of the blame for those letters that arrive in the nick of time, those long-winded explanations of action that took place years earlier, those icy motivations. It's only his heroine, trudging out into the snow to find her own life, who seems real today. Women have been doing that—both off and on stage ever since.

Altogether it was a great weekend for the classics. On Friday Art Carney played the role of narrator and stage manager on Thornton Wilder's great play "Out Town." I've seen "Our Town" any number of times and I don't know that I've ever seen it presented much more faithfully than this.

There was no scenery and no props. This puts the emphasis exactly where it belongs—on the people, on the situations — and they, of course, are basic. The arrival of dawn in the sky. The arrival of the milk man. The arrival of a baby. What a towering simplicity of mind was Thornton Wilder's to put all these essentials in the first five minutes of a play!

That, of course, is what "Our Town" is all about. People are born. They get married. They have children. They die. And, in between, are the sunsets, the smell of coffeee in the morning, the sounds of Christmas, the small noises and the smells of life—and Wilder's message is, for God's sake, appreciate it all while you have it.

There was always something missing in this play to me—something a little abrupt in the movement from a wedding to the cemetery. But with the clean-limbed and very stark direction of Mr. Quintero—this is his first network TV show—Mr. Wilder's great idea comes through naked and unadorned. "Live people don't understand," cries his dead heroine to the other dead in the cemetery. "No, not very much," says her dead mother-in-law. And later: "All this was going on and I didn't notice," she says later, as she relives a little bit of a single day.

It's a great message—to live life every minute, to count your blessings every one, to love and be loved—probably the greatest message ever contained by any play in our time or maybe any other time. Carney, who is getting to be the most versatile all around talent we have, put a little New England twang in his voice, a wonderful gleam of humanity in his eye, and was thoroughly enchanting, mixing an imaginary soda while discoursing on how delightful life was in our town before the automobile arrived.

This is the second of the Art Carney shows by the way. He'll be doing some more variety shows and some more dramatic shows—eight shows in all for his own series and a special in January, a great tour de force, "Call Me Back," in which he plays a ninety-minute drama all by himself—no other actor in sight.

Steels, Rails And Autos Spark Market Advance

NEW YORK (UPI) — Strength in steels, rails and autos gave the stock market one of its best sessions in weeks.

The advance restored more than 3 billion dollars to market valuations.

Support at first centered on the steel and rail issues and then spread to the motors—three groups that would benefit from a new steel contract which many think will be forthcoming before the steel injunction runs out.

Gains in the steels ranged to 5½ in Youngstown which was up 7 or more at its top, more than 3 each in U.S. Steel and Jones & Laughlin, and 2 or better in Republic, Bethlehem and Lukens.

The steel strength was naerly matched by the rails where gains were general and substantial. The group rose fractions to a more than a point following a report of a sharp rise in Pennsylvania Railroads carloadings and a report Pennsy will declare a 25-cent dividend Thursday.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	2 NT.
Pass	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♣.

Failure to count up 10 winners cost declarer a vulnerable game today, when he encountered unfavorable distribution.

South was critical of his partner's raise to four hearts, maintaining that with his evenly balanced hand he should have returned to three no trump. As for North's election to raise to four hearts, it meets with the approval of this department, for South's rebid of three hearts is a warning that his hand is unbalanced. North should therefore favor the major where most of his tricks are of the first and second round variety. But he should lean toward no trump when his hand contains an abundance of intermediate cards.

The king of clubs was opened and taken in dummy with the ace. Declarer then played the queen and ace of hearts, at which point as the cards lay, he could no longer win the hand. He was, to be sure, victim of an unfortunate distribution when diamonds failed to break and the ace of spades was "off-side," but even against these hardships he could have come home with his contract had he resorted to the elementary practice of counting to 10.

Declarer, after winning the opening lead, ruffs a club in his hand and leads a spade. East wins with the ace. His best return is a trump, which declarer wins with the jack. The spade trick should be cashed and another club ruffed in the closed hand. At this point declarer takes in his ace and king of diamonds and gets out with a diamond. Regardless of the defense; declarer will be able to ruff his remaining diamond with dummy's queen of hearts.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) —Grain futures prices were mixed Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅜ to up ¾; corn unchanged to off ⅛; oats up ⅛ to 1⅛; rye unchanged to up ½ and soybeans off ⅜ to up ½.

In wheat, liquidation of December and selling of deferred contracts lowered most prices. December sold at 4⅛ cents below March. Some traders were expecting tenders against December when delivery time rolls around. Deferred months closed strong.

Corn was firm at the outset and then steadied. Commercial interests bought December. There was local and scattered selling.

Clearing and warming weather was expected to speed movement of grains from farms. Export subsidies were granted on 828,000 bushels of corn.

Nearby oats deliveries advanced sharply. Cash grain houses bought December. Offers were light, and shorts covered on the way up.

Rye was firm.

Most of the soybean trade consisted of evening-up transactions in November prior to the expiration of trading Wednesday. Soybeans were mixed after an early decline. Commission houses were on both sides of the market. Commercial houses sold November and took later deliveries in exchange. Local CCC sales Tuesday totaled 230,000 bushels.

Japan was said to have bought 10,000 tons of white wheat. India asked offers for 885,000 bushels of hard or spring wheat.

Outside markets were mixed.

Steels, Rails And Autos Spark Market Advance

NEW YORK (UPI) — Strength in steels, rails and autos gave the stock market one of its best sessions in weeks.

The advance restored more than 3 billion dollars to market valuations.

Support at first centered on the steel and rail issues and then spread to the motors—three groups that would benefit from a new steel contract which many think will be forthcoming before the steel injunction runs out.

Gains in the steels ranged to 5½ in Youngstown which was up 7 or more at its top, more than 3 each in U.S. Steel and Jones & Laughlin, and 2 or better in Republic, Bethlehem and Lukens.

The steel strength was naerly matched by the rails where gains were general and substantial. The group rose fractions to a more than a point following a report of a sharp rise in Pennsylvania Railroads carloadings and a report Pennsy will declare a 25-cent dividend Thursday.

Litton gained 6 in the electronics where Ampex jumped 4, Texas Instruments 3½ and Siegler more than a point.

Failure to count up 10 winners cost declarer a vulnerable game today, when he encountered unfavorable distribution.

South was critical of his partner's raise to four hearts, maintaining that with his evenly balanced hand he should have returned to three no trump. As for North's election to raise to four hearts, it meets with the approval of this department, for South's rebid of three hearts is a warning that his hand is unbalanced. North should therefore favor the major where most of his tricks are of the first and second round variety. But he should lean toward no trump when his hand contains an abundance of intermediate cards.

The king of clubs was opened and taken in dummy with the ace. Declarer then played the queen and ace of hearts, at which point as the cards lay, he could no longer win the hand. He was, to be sure, victim of an unfortunate distribution when diamonds failed to break and the ace of spades was "off-side," but even against these hardships he could have come home with his contract had he resorted to the elementary practice of counting to 10.

Declarer, after winning the opening lead, ruffs a club in his hand and leads a spade. East wins with the ace. His best return is a trump, which declarer wins with the jack. The spade trick should be cashed and another club ruffed in the closed hand. At this point declarer takes in his ace and king of diamonds and gets out with a diamond. Regardless of the defense, declarer will be able to ruff his remaining diamond with dummy's queen of hearts.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) —Grain futures prices were mixed Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅝ to up ¾; corn unchanged to off ⅛; oats up ⅛ to 1⅛; rye unchanged to up ½ and soybeans off ⅜ to up ½.

In wheat, liquidation of December and selling of deferred contracts lowered most prices. December sold at 4½ cents below March. Some traders were expecting tenders against December when delivery time rolls around. Deferred months closed strong.

Corn was firm at the outset and then steadied. Commercial interests bought December. There was local and scattered selling.

Clearing and warming weather was expected to speed movement of grains from farms. Export subsidies were granted on 828,000 bushels of corn.

Nearby oats deliveries advanced sharply. Cash grain houses bought December. Offers were light, and shorts covered on the way up.

Rye was firm.

Most of the soybean trade consisted of evening-up transactions in November prior to the expiration of trading Wednesday. Soybeans were mixed after an early decline. Commission houses were on both sides of the market. Commercial houses sold November and took later deliveries in exchange. Local CCC sales Tuesday totaled 230,000 bushels.

Japan was said to have bought 10,000 tons of white wheat. India asked offers for 885,000 bushels of hard or spring wheat.

Outside markets were mixed.

Fatally injured in the accident was Mrs. Mary Spano, 49, wife of Nicola Spano, of 71 Maple Street, Keyser, W. Va.

Mrs. Spano suffered a deep laceration of the skull and was bleeding from the nose and ears when she was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital by city police. She died of a fractured skull at 4:20 p. m.

Injured in the accident, which occurred at 3:16 p. m., was Mrs. Carmelia Jeffries, 33, wife of Carroll Jeffries, 61 West Hampshire Street, Piedmont.

Mrs. Jeffries suffered a fractured right arm and a right leg injury. She was reported in favorable condition in the hospital last night.

To Be Questioned

The driver of the vehicle, identified by City Police as Jack Charles Trexler, 511 City View Terrace, has been summoned for questioning at 10 a. m. today at the state's attorney's office.

Officer E. M. Powell, who investigated with Officers John Daum and Roy Hawse, said the women were struck by the truck, driven by Trexler for Mary's Cleaners, as they were crossing from Washington Street to Greene Street.

They said Mrs. Jeffries told them they had no warning of the truck and that she "looked up and there it was."

Police said the delivery truck was headed south on Greene Street when it struck the women, who were lying about 15 feet south of the Emmanuel Episcopal Church gate when officers arrived.

Husband In Hospital

Mrs. Spano's husband is a patient in Potomac Valley Hospital with pneumonia.

Born at Keyser, Mrs. Spano was a daughter of the late Frank and Catherine (Comisso) Tanetta. Mrs. Spano was a member of the Catholic Church of the Assumption.

Traffic Light Change Slated Next Week

Plan Will Avert Future Revision

The Police Department yesterday authorized the Potomac Edison Company to convert the Mechanic Street traffic light to conform with signals at Centre and George streets.

Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming said the PE crews expect to begin the conversion job next week after work now under way on downtown Christmas street lighting is completed.

Mr. Fleming said the work was delayed pending decisions connected with the widening of Baltimore Street between Mechanic and Canal streets.

He added the city did not want to do the work twice.

Mr. Fleming said the signals will remain in their present locations for the present and that the light at the southwest corner of Baltimore and Mechanic will be moved when the widening project begins early next spring.

He said a smaller pole will be installed when the street is widened to provide more space for pedestrians.

Conversion of the traffic lights will provide amber warning signals between each traffic change.

School Cost Sharing Plan To Be Aired

BALTIMORE (AP) — A "balanced partnership" proposal in aid to education will be the topic in speeches and round table discussions here Thursday and Friday.

Some 300 residents of all parts of the state will attend the conference, sponsored by the Maryland State Department of Education.

The new proposal was drawn by a department committee with the outside advice of Dr. Paul R. Mort of Columbia University. It provides for the state to split current costs of education on a 50-50 basis with local governments. The department estimates it now contributes 36 per cent annually to public schools, or 60½ million dollars.

Under the "balanced partnership" proposal, the state would increase its aid by 10 million dollars for each of the first five years and 15 million dollars each year thereafter. The increase provides for natural growth, but does not cover additional state help in paying off the costs of building schools, also part of the plan.

The conference will be attended by Jerome Frampton Jr., president of the state board from Federalsburg; Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent; Dr. Wesley Dorn, state supervisor of instruction; William A. Gunter, board vice president from Cumberland; Dr. Edward M. Bernstein, a Washington economist; William S. Schmidt, Prince George's County school superintendent, and Gov. Tawes.

Police said the driver of the car was Daniel G. Vance of Bedford Road who was traveling in an alley between Greene Street and Washington Street.

They said that the boy darted into the path of the car after running out of the yard at his home. City Police Officer Elmer Shank is continuing an investigation into the accident, which occurred about 5:30 p.m.

Slight Warmup In Temperature Forecast Today

Mercury Hits Zero On Big Savage

The cold wave which invaded this area late Tuesday and dropped the temperature to zero on Big Savage Mountain is moving out to sea, according to the Weather Bureau.

The mercury dropped to 13 degrees in Cumberland overnight yesterday and only reached a high of 35 degrees here yesterday. Readings were steady most of the day yesterday but late last night the mercury began to drop sharply.

The forecast for today calls for mostly sunny and not so cold with the high between 35 and 40 degrees. The overnight low was expected to be between 12 and 20 degrees.

Oakland reported a low yesterday of six degrees and many other towns and cities throughout the state reported readings in the teens and low 20s.

The previous low reading for Baltimore for November 18 of 22 degrees, set in 1891, was broken yesterday when the mercury dipped to 20 degrees in that city.

Light snow was reported Wednesday in the Oakland and Accident areas and road crews of the State Roads Commission were called out to cinder a number of icy spots.

The Weather Bureau in Charleston, W. Va., calls for a chance of snow showers in the mountain areas tonight. A high of between 45 and 50 degrees is forecast for that state today.

Racing at Waterford Park at Chester, W. Va., was cancelled yesterday and today due to the cold weather.

Boy Swings Into Path Of Auto

An 11-year-old local boy, making like Tarzan, was hospitalized last night with injuries sustained when he struck a moving automobile on Gay Street while swinging on an electric wire.

The driver of the car, Anthony Hickle, 950 Gay Street, took the boy to the hospital after the accident at 7:30 p. m. The boy was swinging on a dead wire which was suspended from a pole across the street from the Cumberland Macaroni Factory.

Police Officer Elmer Shank said the driver apparently saw the boy swinging out into the street and slowed the vehicle down, but the lad later swung into the side of the moving car.

'Planimeter' Used By ASC To Measure Land Acreage

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Yesterday afternoon, Miss Elizabeth Hoover, office manager, was using the instrument—invented by a German scientist—and was calculating the acreage on 13 land plots of a North Branch farm.

Earlier in the day, a reporter for the ASC had gone to the farm, taking with him an aerial photo of the land. He conferred with the farmer, who gave him estimated figures on the acreage which will come under the soil bank program. In turn the reporter made notations of the estimated figures and marked the plots by number.

Then Miss Hoover placed the photo on her office desk and went to work with the planimeter. Her figures and those supplied by the farmer were very close in most instances, and were the same in other cases. If there is more than two-tenths difference in the figures, Miss Hoover takes another measurement.

She said that lines and figures on one part of the delicate instrument are so fine that she must resort to a magnifying glass to assure accuracy.

The instrument, which is also used to determine acreage in the wheat quota allotment program, is not a new piece of office equipment, as it has been in use since 1939.

The aerial photo used yesterday was taken in 1952. Since then the sprawling Works 7 of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company has been added to the North Branch landscape.

Another set of pictures of the county was taken in 1939 by a branch of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Martin Gordon, who also works with aerial photos in various phases of conservation, said the pictures probably were taken at a height of about 10,000 feet.

In the past year, up-to-date photos were taken along the Eastern Shore and other sections of the state, although the photographer did not get to Western Maryland.

Tawes Tightens Rules On Use Of State-Owned Cars

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov Tawes announced Wednesday he is tightening regulations on the use of State-owned automobiles as recommended by a special study committee requested by the Legislature.

Drivers will be required to use the cars for State business only or for transportation to and from their homes to places of work.

Operators will be personally responsible for the vehicles assigned to them, and shall be charged for any damages resulting from misuse or abuse.

Special license plates will be required for all those except certain unmarked cars used in police or investigative work and those assigned to the governor, comptroller and attorney general for personal use.

A record of unidentified cars will be kept by the commissioner of motor vehicles and a special committee will assist him in screening applications for such vehicles. James P. Slicher, chief of the Budget Bureau, will head the committee which also consists of Motor Vehicles Commissioner John R. Jewell and Chief Deputy Comptroller Bernard F. Nossel.

The permanent committee will also determine the necessity of using a car on State business after working hours, on weekends or at places of entertainment or amusement, such as ball games, race tracks and resorts.

Tawes said he was putting the regulations into effect by an administrative order.

'Icy Road' Signs Will Be Erected

To Warn Drivers Of Winter Hazards

The State Roads Commission will begin placing "Icy Road" signs in Allegany County today.

The first of the signs will be erected at the Narrows Bridge on Route 40 by a crew headed by George B. Hale, maintenance engineer, according to George Geary, acting District 6 engineer.

Similar signs are scheduled to go up here today on Henderson Avenue and on Long Hill.

Erection of the signs is part of a snow and ice emergency plan adopted by the SRC in cooperation with the State Police to enable drivers to travel Maryland highways in safety and comfort and with a minimum of delay in adverse weather conditions.

To Remove Covers

The signs marked "Icy Road" with white letters on a red background will be placed at locations where ice and snow may be expected to create a hazardous condition.

Each sign will be provided with a cover so writing will be exposed only when needed. State Police troopers will uncover the signs whenever they observe a hazardous condition.

Some of the signs will be equipped with a flashing amber signal light. They will be used at points which may become particularly hazardous when ice and snow glaze the highways.

The signs are being supplied first to District 6, which includes Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties, the most mountainous part of Maryland.

The first shipment of signs was delivered to Hagerstown Tuesday and the Allegany and Garrett signs were picked up by District 6 workers yesterday.

More On Order

The first shipment includes about 35 signs for Allegany County and two dozen each for Garrett and Washington counties.

Additional signs are on order and a few of them will go up in this area and the others in other parts of the state.

A limited number of amber flashing lights will be used. One will be placed on Barn Hill on Route 40, at the eastern limits of Frostburg.

The special signs will have amber flashing lights seven inches in diameter. They will be operated by batteries which will operate for 500 hours.

The signs, according to area SRC officials, will be uncovered by the first State Police officer or SRC worker to arrive after a storm starts.

Drivers May Call

District engineering forces whose responsibility it is to clear the snow or salt and cinder the highway, will begin operations immediately upon development of hazardous conditions.

Since maintenance personnel may be called upon for duty outside normal working hours and since such duty must be performed under adverse and dangerous conditions, "reasonable and satisfactory compensation," will be paid to personnel for all call-out duty after their normal hours, the SRC said.

As a further service to the motoring public, it is anticipated that a card will be prominently posted in each roadside telephone booth. This card would give a number which motorists could call to find out about snow and ice conditions.

"The State Roads Commission feels," John B. Funk, chairman-director said, "That it has a responsibility to get these roads in safe condition as soon as it possibly can. The Commission also wants to be able to get people to work in the morning even though ice or snow may develop on certain stretches of highway over night."

Water Study Meet Friday

County farm agent, yesterday said two meetings of interest to county farmers and landowners will be held in his office tomorrow.

Paul M. Galbreath, assistant extension soil conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service, is expected ot attend the meeting, along with officials of such agencies as the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, district forester's office, SCS and the Allegany Soil Conservation District.

The meeting is being called at the request of the Maryland Water Study Commission. Detailed information on the meeting tomorrow was furnished by Edward R. Keil, state conservationist of the SCS at College Park.

At 1:30 p. m. tomorrow there will be a regular meeting of the supervisors of the Allegany Soil Conservation District.

Mr. Fleming said the signals will remain in their present locations for the present and that the light at the southwest corner of Baltimore and Mechanic will be moved when the widening project begins early next spring.

He said a smaller pole will be installed when the street is widened to provide more space for pedestrians.

Conversion of the traffic lights will provide amber warning signals between each traffic change.

School Cost Sharing Plan To Be Aired

BALTIMORE (AP) — A "balanced partnership" proposal in aid to education will be the topic in speeches and round table discussions here Thursday and Friday.

Some 300 residents of all parts of the state will attend the conference, sponsored by the Maryland State Department of Education.

The new proposal was drawn by a department committee with the outside advice of Dr. Paul R. Mort of Columbia University. It provides for the state to split current costs of education on a 50-50 basis with local governments. The department estimates it now contributes 36 per cent annually to public schools, or 60½ million dollars.

Under the "balanced partnership" proposal, the state would increase its aid by 10 million dollars for each of the first five years and 15 million dollars each year thereafter. The increase provides for natural growth, but does not cover additional state help in paying off the costs of building schools, also part of the plan.

The conference will be attended by Jerome Frampton Jr., president of the state board from Federalsburg; Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent; Dr. Wesley Dorn, state supervisor of instruction; William A. Gunter, board vice president from Cumberland; Dr. Edward M. Bernstein, a Washington economist; William S. Schmidt, Prince George's County school superintendent, and Gov. Tawes.

COLLECTION DAY TODAY

Slight Warmup In Temperature Forecast Today

Mercury Hits Zero On Big Savage

The cold wave which invaded this area late Tuesday and dropped the temperature to zero on Big Savage Mountain is moving out to sea, according to the Weather Bureau.

The mercury dropped to 13 degrees in Cumberland overnight yesterday and only reached a high of 35 degrees here yesterday. Readings were steady most of the day yesterday but late last night the mercury began to drop sharply.

The forecast for today calls for mostly sunny and not so cold with the high between 35 and 40 degrees. The overnight low was expected to be between 12 and 20 degrees.

Oakland reported a low yesterday of six degrees and many other towns and cities throughout the state reported readings in the teens and low 20s.

The previous low reading for Baltimore for November 18 of 22 degrees, set in 1891, was broken yesterday when the mercury dipped to 20 degrees in that city.

Light snow was reported Wednesday in the Oakland and Accident areas and road crews of the State Roads Commission were called out to cinder a number of icy spots.

The Weather Bureau in Charleston, W. Va., calls for a chance of snow showers in the mountain areas tonight. A high of between 45 and 50 degrees is forecast for that state today.

Racing at Waterford Park at Chester, W. Va., was cancelled yesterday and today due to the cold weather.

Boy Swings Into Path Of Auto

An 11-year-old local boy, making like Tarzan, was hospitalized last night with injuries sustained when he struck a moving automobile on Gay Street while swinging on an electric wire.

The driver of the car, Anthony Hickle, 950 Gay Street, took the boy to the hospital after the accident at 7:30 p. m. The boy was swinging on a dead wire which was suspended from a pole across the street from the Cumberland Macaroni Factory.

Police Officer Elmer Shank said the driver apparently saw the boy swinging out into the street and slowed the vehicle down, but the lad later swung into the side of the moving car.

Hercules Plans To Build New Plastic Plant

Hercules Powder Company, which operates the Navy's Allegany Ballistics Laboratory near Pinto; disclosed yesterday that it would build a multimillion dollar polypropylene (plastic) plant at Lake Charles, La.

The plant is designed for ultimate capacity in excess of 100 million pounds a year. This will be the second Hercules plant for the production of polypropylene.

The first such plant and one of the largest in the world is located at Parlin, N.J. and has been in operation since 1957.

Albert E. Forster, president and board chairman of Hercules, said construction of the new and larger facility will begin immediately with completion of the first 50-million-pound unit scheduled for early 1961.

Perhaps no recently developed plastic has gained commercial acceptance in so short a time as has "Pro-Fax," trademark for the Hercules polypropylene. It ranks today as industry's most promising and fastest growing plastic, he said.

'Planimeter' Used By ASC To Measure Land Acreage

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Yesterday afternoon, Miss Elizabeth Hoover, office manager, was using the instrument—invented by a German scientist—and was calculating the acreage on 13 land plots of a North Branch farm.

Earlier in the day, a reporter for the ASC had gone to the farm, taking with him an aerial photo of the land. He conferred with the farmer, who gave him estimated figures on the acreage which will come under the soil bank program. In turn the reporter made notations of the estimated figures and marked the plots by number.

Then Miss Hoover placed the photo on her office desk and went to work with the planimeter. Her figures and those supplied by the farmer were very close in most instances, and were the same in other cases. If there is more than two-tenths difference in the figures, Miss Hoover takes another measurement.

She said that lines and figures on one part of the delicate instrument are so fine that she must resort to a magnifying glass to assure accuracy.

The instrument, which is also used to determine acreage in the wheat quota allotment program, is not a new piece of office equipment, as it has been in use since 1939.

The aerial photo used yesterday was taken in 1952. Since then the sprawling Works 7 of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company has been added to the North Branch landscape.

Another set of pictures of the county was taken in 1939 by a branch of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Martin Gordon, who also works with aerial photos in various phases of conservation, said the pictures probably were taken at a height of about 10,000 feet.

In the past year, up-to-date photos were taken along the Eastern Shore and other sections of the state, although the photographer did not get to Western Maryland.

'Icy Road' Signs Will Be Erected

To Warn Drivers Of Winter Hazards

The State Roads Commission will begin placing "Icy Road" signs in Allegany County today.

The first of the signs will be erected at the Narrows Bridge on Route 40 by a crew headed by George B. Hale, maintenance engineer, according to George Geary, acting District 6 engineer.

Similar signs are scheduled to go up here today on Henderson Avenue and on Long Hill.

Erection of the signs is part of a snow and ice emergency plan adopted by the SRC in cooperation with the State Police to enable drivers to travel Maryland highways in safety and comfort and with a minimum of delay in adverse weather conditions.

To Remove Covers

The signs marked "Icy Road" with white letters on a red background will be placed at locations where ice and snow may be expected to create a hazardous condition.

Each sign will be provided with a cover so writing will be exposed only when needed. State Police troopers will uncover the signs whenever they observe a hazardous condition.

Some of the signs will be equipped with a flashing amber signal light. They will be used at points which may become particularly hazardous when ice and snow glaze the highways.

The signs are being supplied first to District 6, which includes Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties, the most mountainous part of Maryland.

The first shipment of signs was delivered to Hagerstown Tuesday and the Allegany and Garrett signs were picked up by District 6 workers yesterday.

More On Order

The first shipment includes about 35 signs for Allegany County and two dozen each for Garrett and Washington counties.

Additional signs are on order and a few of them will go up in this area and the others in other parts of the state.

A limited number of amber flashing lights will be used. One will be placed on Barn Hill on Route 40, at the eastern limits of Frostburg.

The special signs will have amber flashing lights seven inches in diameter. They will be operated by batteries which will operate for 500 hours.

The signs, according to area SRC officials, will be uncovered by the first State Police officer or SRC worker to arrive after a storm starts.

Drivers May Call

District engineering forces, whose responsibility it is to clear the snow or salt and cinder the highway, will begin operations immediately upon development of hazardous conditions.

Since maintenance personnel may be called upon for duty outside normal working hours and since such duty must be performed under adverse and dangerous conditions, "reasonable and satisfactory compensation," will be paid to personnel for all call-out duty after their normal hours, the SRC said.

As a further service to the motoring public, it is anticipated that a card will be prominently posted in each roadside telephone booth. This card would give a number which motorists could call to find out about snow and ice conditions.

"The State Roads Commission feels," John B. Funk, chairman-director said, "That it has a responsibility to get these roads in safe condition as soon as it possibly can. The Commission also wants to be able to get people to work in the morning even though ice or snow may develop on certain stretches of highway over night."
